

Marin's Vietnam Hero Calls It A 'Dirty War'

By ROBERT STREBEIGH

The nicest thing about Marin County is that "nobody's trying to kill me here."

That was the answer given yesterday by Sp4 Herman G. Zwirtz of San Rafael on being asked what he liked most about being home and out of the service after a year of combat duty in Vietnam.

Killing was something the soft-spoken veteran talked about with casual detachment: "That's one thing you accept right off the bat. If you don't kill, you'll be killed."

But it was for his heroic and unselfish efforts at saving lives that the 21-year-old soldier received the Silver Star, the nation's third highest ranking decoration after the Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross.

The citation accompanying his decoration tells how Zwirtz, under heavy enemy fire Nov. 19 near the Cambodian border, pulled his wounded platoon leader and another man to safety, then picked up a machine gun to cover his badly mauled unit's retreat and evacuation by helicopter.

Zwirtz, a radio communications specialist, yesterday recalled that "my radio was all shot to pieces and that left my hands free to grab a machine gun."

Zwirtz said of himself and his fellow servicemen in Vietnam: "Nobody knew exactly why we were there. They don't know why they're fighting." He said he encountered no resentment, however, on the part of any serviceman at being in Vietnam; "They just figure it's got to be done and wait for their year to be up." But the slender, blond ex-soldier said he and the other men soon found a reason for fighting that had nothing to do with ideological or political reasons: "When you see what the Communists can do to those people you get so darn mad." He said, "As a matter of fact, some of us got pretty bloodthirsty and would go out looking for a fight."

He found little concern among the troops over opposition to the war being voiced at home. "We didn't hear much about that," he said, "except maybe a few paragraphs now and then in Stars and Stripes." He said he had come across no feeling of being let down by those at home.

Zwirtz said he had never been bothered about the possibility of killing a civilian by mistake. "There's no way of knowing if you've killed a Viet Cong or not," he said. "The VC take all forms. He could look like a farmer in his rice paddy in the day and that night be throwing a grenade at you."

He called it "a dirty war... a pretty lousy mess over there," and said: "Charlie loses out a lot. We lose a few good men, too. But it has to be fought and someone has to do it."

Zwirtz, who had attended Terra Linda High School "for a couple of months," was at loss to explain what prompted his enlistment in 1964. "That is a question I've been asking myself for three years. I don't know why I joined. Maybe to get my service out of the way before getting a job and settling down."

Now home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Zwirtz, at 6 Coolidge Avenue, he looks back on his Army service as a good thing: "It helps you to grow up, learn some discipline."

Most valuable to him, he said, was the training he received "in all phases of radio communications." He said he may look for a career in this field. He also said he was thinking of "going back to school" on his veterans' benefits.

He may "even go back in the Army," he said. He has 90 days from discharge — in his case, Friday the 13th — to make up his mind without loss of rank.

When he gets around to looking for a job and is asked for references, there will be the Army's estimate of him, written on his citation:

"His refusal to give up, even though under heavy enemy fire, when his fellow soldiers were in need of his aid, is a reflection of his true character."

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

VOL. 106 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1967 10c PER COPY No. 259

Year's First Rain Ends Long Drought

The first storm of 1967 reached Marin early this morning, ending a six-week dry spell, the longest drought in the middle of the rainy season since records were first kept in the Bay Area in 1849.

An intense storm from the Pacific Northwest dropped 1.95 inches on San Rafael by noon today and was expected to dump heavier rains through tomorrow.

The last appreciable rainfall in Marin was Dec. 8. In the period, Dec. 9 through Jan. 20 last year, 14.31 inches were recorded in San Rafael.

There was some interruption of power and phone service in the county.

California Highway Patrol's phones in its Corte Madera office knocked out at 8:30 a.m. Patrol headquarters in San Francisco said radio communication was maintained with men in the field, but contact with the office was lost.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. said it hoped to have service resumed in the afternoon. Wet cables were blamed.

Out of service at the same time were about 100 homes and businesses in that Paradise Drive area of Corte Madera.

About 250 phones in Kentfield, on Makin Grade and on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard were out of service from 9:30 a.m. with service expected to be restored by 4 p.m. Some 200 customers were without phones in Sausalito's Marinship area from 7:30 a.m., with resumption expected in the early afternoon.

The only significant power failure reported by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was in San Anselmo, where a eucalyptus limb broke a power line on Sonoma Avenue north of Sir Francis Drake boulevard. Power was

Baker Reports Taking Problem To His Friend

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — Bob Baker testified today that around July 1962, he went to see "the best friend I had around the Capitol," the then vice president, about his financial problems.

Baker did not mention the name, but President Lyndon B. Johnson was vice president at the time.

Testifying in his own defense at his trial on income tax evasion and other charges, Baker said also that he had overpaid his 1961 income taxes rather than underpaying them by $1,504 as the government alleges.

HIS PLIGHT

"I was in very serious financial difficulty," Baker related concerning the 1962 incident. "I went to the best friend I had around the Capitol. I went to see the then vice president and told him I had a very serious problem."

Baker said he asked the vice president's advice, and he picked up a telephone and called "his friend and my friend," the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla.

KERR MEETING

Baker said he, meaning the vice president, "advised me to go immediately to Sen. Kerr's office, which I did."

Baker said he told Kerr about his financial problems, and Kerr made arrangements for a $250,000 loan from the Fidelity Bank & Trust Co. in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Kerr also said he would make a personal loan to Baker for $50,000, Baker said.

Earlier, Baker's chief lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, had named Kerr as the recipient of $100,000 given by California savings and loan officials to Baker as senatorial campaign contributions. The government has charged that Baker kept about $80,000 of the $100,000.

Williams said he would prove that all of the money, most of it in $100 bills, was turned over by Baker to the late Sen. Kerr. A few weeks later, on Jan. 1, 1963, See BAKER, page 4

Mother Dies In Crash; Three Girls Uninjured

Most of San Quentin's 4,000 inmates remained locked in their cells today while prison personnel assessed the damage and sought the cause of Wednesday's outbreak of violence, involving a confrontation of more than 2,000 white and Negro prisoners.

A cell-by-cell search for improvised weapons was under way. A "dump truck full" of weapons was gathered up after the melee in the main yard that threatened for more than three hours to break into racial warfare, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

Also under way, according to Park, was interrogation of almost every prisoner to determine his whereabouts and why he did not join the near-riot, in an attempt to learn who and what caused the outbreak.

Both the search and the interrogation were described by Park as a "long, hard and difficult process." He said, however, that it was hoped the prison could return to normal operation "by sometime next week."

Meanwhile, efforts were being made to ease restrictions on "the hundreds of men who were totally uninvolved," Park said. He cited two prisoners he saw quietly continuing to plant flowers in a yard adjoining the main yard, where the shouting and booing white and Negro factions were being kept apart by gunfire laid down between them by guards on the walls.

Park said it was hoped to serve at least one hot meal today. Since the outbreak, the prisoners have been served sandwiches delivered to cells.

"The feeding will have to be very closely controlled, maximum security. It will take a long time to feed them all," Park said.

Catwalks that run into every significant area of the prison, including the mess halls, will be manned with armed guards, Park said, and prisoners will move to and from their cells in small groups.

There was no assessment yet of the damage done in the riot, during which two classrooms were set afire, windows in the mess hall broken, and equipment broken up to fashion weapons.

Park said much of what was destroyed was antiquated and overdue for replacement. He mentioned the classrooms, which were installed 20 years ago for temporary offices.

He discounted the role of the Black Muslims in starting the riot. He called them Negro extremists "who preach racial segregation" and said they undoubtedly participated, but that "we have our white extremists, too, just like the rest of society," and the blame cannot be put on any one group.

The situation at the prison today was described by Park as "satisfactory, pretty quiet."

Yesterday, some still rebellious inmates in the south cell block caused minor disturbance, according to Park, by setting fire to pieces of paper and blankets and tossing these onto the tiers outside their cells.

Planned Wedding Soon

Three little girls, the eldest 6 years old, were orphaned today when their mother was thrown to her death from a car on Highway 101 just north of St. Vincent's Hill.

The daughters were with their mother in the car, but escaped unhurt.

Dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital at 10:30 a.m. was 24-year-old Mrs. Ruby White of 404 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, a divorcee who had been planning to re-marry within a few weeks.

Pundits Differ On Bombing Halt; Gls Find Viet Cong Attack Plans

COMBINED AP & UPI

The North Vietnamese no longer believe they can win the war — but do not think they can lose it either, a former Pulitzer Prize winning editor reported today after returning to the U.S. from Hanoi.

Harry Ashmore, one-time Arkansas Gazette editor, said in Los Angeles he had personally invited North Vietnamese Premier Ho Chi Minh to an unofficial peace conference in Geneva, and was "encouraged" by the reaction. But he called for a halt to U.S. bombing of the north to ease the way to peace talks.

Meanwhile, former GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater reported in Phoenix, Ariz., that his recent four-day trip to South Vietnam left him "feeling we're winning this war," but called for more freedom in bombing targets.

In the war zone itself, U.S. troops poking through an underground maze of tunnels below the Hobo Woods 40 miles north of Saigon today discovered a detailed map pinpointing U. S. billits in the capital and a master plan for destruction of the Tan Son Nhut airport.

The discovery in three-mile long tunnels at the edge of the Iron Triangle was announced as Air Force spokesmen disclosed American planes charged up Hanoi's danger-packed "MIG Alley" yesterday to within 15 miles of the off limits buffer zone separating North Vietnam from China.

Brig. Gen. Richard T. Knowles commander of the 196th light Infantry described the Iron Triangle tunnel as a main base camp for guerrilla bands operating in the capital area. The United States launched its biggest operation of the war against the Red sanctuary Jan. 8 and so far has killed more than 600 Viet Cong in Operation Cedar Falls.

Knowles said his men found a detailed plan of the Dec. 4 attack on the Tan Son Nhut airbase, the most important U.S. and Vietnamese military facility in Vietnam, with details of how best to destroy the sprawling complex. Their attempt failed.

Red Radio Hints Massive Battles In Shanghai Area

HONG KONG (UPI)—Peking Radio said tonight the opponents of Chinese Communist Party Secretary Mao Tse-tung had mobilized "great numbers" of peasants and sent them into Shanghai to attack pro-Mao workers. It implied fighting had broken out in the city.

The broadcast over the radio now believed held by pro-Mao elements in Peking said the Maoist forces in Shanghai "now have decided to hand over those reactionary power holders of the party's Shanghai committee to the masses to be attacked and destroyed." It did not elaborate.

The Maoists were reported earlier to be holding some of their enemies, and recent dispatches from the city of 10 million said two vice mayors of the city had been dragged through the streets by Red Guards.

Should the Peking broadcast be borne out and heavy fighting develop in the city, it would be the most serious development in Mao's "cultural revolution" that See CHINA, page 4

Reagan, Unruh Clash Forms Over Tuition

BERKELEY (AP) — A clash shaped up today between Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and the powerful Democratic Assembly leader, Jesse M. Unruh, over tuition in California's higher education institutions.

The two face each other, on opposite sides of the tuition fence, at a closed session of the University of California Board of Regents, which held an open session Thursday.

Reagan, pressed by an expected multi-million-dollar state budget deficit, turned over his tuition plan to regents for a month of study. Later, asked about plans to bring the tuition issue to a vote in today's session, Reagan said he was against it.

It was learned that Unruh, who is against tuition, will push for a vote on the issue which has ignited statewide controversy.

Reagan and the other regents are squeezed between swelling UC enrollment and a $473 million budget deficit. The board voted to keep enrollments open while trying to cut expenses.

Facing mounting criticism over his economy proposals, Reagan agreed to restore $5 million to finance year-around classes at UCLA and Berkeley.

Tuition, Budget Trims Favored

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Support of the imposition of tuition fees at the university and state colleges has been reaffirmed by the Executive Board of the California Taxpayers Assn.

The group said yesterday it also supports the Reagan administration's general goal of reducing the budget an average of 10 per cent.

In a resolution sent to the governor and legislative leaders, the directors proposed no specific tuition charges. They said the charges should be "reasonable."

Judge Sets Gas Chamber Date

SAN QUENTIN (UPI) — A murderer is scheduled to die here April 6 in the first California execution since Jan. 23, 1963.

David Jacob Seiterle, 25, from Riverside County, faces the gas chamber for the strangulation-killing of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duval. He was convicted in 1960 with two others who are serving life sentences.

Seiterle is the only one of 62 inmates on the prison's death row who has an execution date.

Seiterle's execution order was signed yesterday by Riverside Superior Court Judge John Neblett.

The Duvals were strangled and stabbed in their home after the three entered the home at the point of a pellet gun.

TO GRANDPARENTS

Her daughters were taken by a highway patrol car to the patrol's headquarters in Corte Madera, then to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Sidbeck, who also live at 404 San Francisco Boulevard.

No details were available on the accident, as both telephone and radio communications of the highway patrol were interrupted in mid-morning by a cable break serving its Corte Madera office. Patrol cars had to be dispatched from the patrol's San Francisco field office, and were unable to report to headquarters.

THIRD PERSON

Mrs. White was the third person killed in Marin traffic this year. Two lives had been lost in traffic to this date in 1966.

The victim was a sister of Robert Dean Sidbeck, 18-year-old Marine who faces trial in Marin Superior Court on Feb. 27 on a charge of killing Mr. and Mrs. Everett F. Zimmerman in their home on San Antonio Road in North Marin last Aug. 30.

Her children are Denise Irene, 6; Cheryl Marie, 4, and Roberta Lynn, 3.

Besides her parents and children, she leaves three brothers and three sisters: Robert; Ronald Sidbeck, serving with the Navy in Vietnam; Clarence, Sylvia and Elsie Sidbeck and Mrs. Betty Gilmore of San Anselmo.

LBJ Seeks New Latin Diplomat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Sol M. Linowitz and Peace Corps Director Jack Hood Vaughn are being mentioned prominently in whom President Johnson will select to fill the administration's top Latin American policy post.

Johnson accepted with "real regret" yesterday the resignation of Lincoln Gordon as assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. Gordon will succeed the retiring Milton S. Eisenhower as president of Baltimore's John Hopkins University June 30.

Linowitz

The White House was mum on Gordon's successor, but in diplomatic circles speculation centered on Linowitz, now ambassador to the Organization of American States, and Vaughn, who once held the State Department post being relinquished by Gordon.

Linowitz, 53, was formerly chairman of Xerox Corp.

Vaughn was named Peace Corps director a year ago when Sargent Shriver stepped aside to devote full time to the administration's anti-poverty program.

Trio Makes Anti-Peking Trip

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin has sent its top three leaders on an unprecedented mission to Communist East Europe apparently to win new backing for the Soviet campaign to sever Red China from the Communist movement.

Brezhnev

A surprise announcement last night revealed a secret trip to Poland Tuesday and Wednesday by Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, President Nikolai Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. It was the first time since they took power that the three Kremlin leaders had traveled abroad together.

The announcement made no mention of their return to Moscow, sparking speculation they may have gone on to other East European countries.

Burglars Take Cash In Novato School

An unidentified amount of money was taken from the San Jose Junior High School in Novato by burglars Wednesday night, according to Novato police.

Entry was by removing a louvered window. Two interior doors were forced, and a cash box in an unlocked safe in one of them was emptied, according to police.

GOP's 'State Of Union' Hits LBJ Tax Hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional Republicans were on the record with their own state of the union message today—and it spelled trouble for President Johnson's proposed tax increase.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., and House leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., delivered their version last night, just nine days after Johnson delivered his to the 90th Congress.

FIRM ON VIETNAM

As expected, the Republican chiefs called for standing firm in Vietnam, criticized administration policy toward most other parts of the world, and hammered it on domestic issues.

At one point, Ford departed from his prepared text to say that Johnson had not made a case for his proposed 6 per cent income tax surcharge and "until he does, we are against it."

It was the strongest statement thus far of the GOP's position on the tax hike, which has also been coming under increasing fire from other quarters.

Ford called for restoration of the 7 per cent investment tax credit and provision for a retroactive 8 per cent hike in Social Security benefits.

'BRIDGE' HIT

Dirksen termed "unthinkable" any retreat from Vietnam but questioned U.S. diplomacy in Africa, Latin America, Asia, the Middle East and Europe. He slapped at the President's call for East-West trade "bridges" and urged consideration of a Common Market for the Western Hemisphere as an answer to Europe's latest trade barriers.

The Republicans dubbed their program, "sensible solutions for the 70s."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., asked in reply: "Why don't they come up with some positive solutions for the 60s?"

And House Democratic leader Carl Albert, Okla., said Ford's domestic proposals offered "nothing new, nothing practical, nothing sound . . . the old broken record of fear, alarm, distrust and futile carping."

Reagan Aides Admit Effort To Control Capital News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two of Gov. Reagan's aides say they are "trying to keep a lid on news coming out of the capital."

Philip Battaglia, the governor's executive secretary, and Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's news secretary, spoke last night at a meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Nofziger said that, although state department heads are forbidden to talk with newsmen unless he approves it, he is not trying to censor information.

"It's easy to say things that don't reflect the policy of this administration," Nofziger explained. "There are still some (employees) appointed by former Gov. Brown) around Sacramento to whom we haven't kicked out yet."

Nofziger said the administration initiated the televised "Report to the People," paid for by private funds, because "we don't want a press conference to dilute the point the governor may be trying to make."

Battaglia said cuts in the University of California budget are possible without endangering enrollment or faculty salaries.

He announced that a conference will be held here next week at which business leaders will be asked to lend employees to advise the governor on ways to save the state money.

New Payload Bolsters U.S. Missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Official disclosure that the latest American missiles will have multiple nuclear warheads adds a significant new figure to the balance sheet of East-West might.

Though the U.S. officials who revealed the development yesterday would go no farther than bare confirmation, the introduction of multiple-warhead weapons appeared clearly linked with Russia's current deployment of missile defenses.

Just how much U.S. officials expect the resulting increase in missile striking power to offset Moscow's stronger defenses in the balance of power is not being discussed in public. But it is certain to weigh heavily in the administration's present study of whether to go ahead with an enormously costly antimissile defense system here.

The missile U.S. officials specifically mentioned as a multi-warhead weapon was the Poseidon. This intercontinental ballistic missile ultimately will be carried by nuclear powered submarines of the type now armed with Polaris missiles.

The advanced model of the Minuteman, to be called Minuteman III, will be similarly equipped with several nuclear warheads.

FIRE PROTECTION OFFERED VALLEY

If Lucas Valley Wants It, Marinwood Would Help For 27.5 Cent Tax Addition

Directors of the Marinwood Community Services District last night ratified a formal offer of fire protection service to residents of upper Lucas Valley—an offer that would add a 27.5-cent per $100 assessed valuation to that area's tax rate.

Under the proposal, residents of upper Lucas Valley would form a county service area that would contract with the CSD.

COST SCHEDULE

The proposal was worked out by CDS Director Donald A. Duerr, after several sessions with representatives of the upper Lucas Valley Home Owners Assn., secretary Genevieve Bolding, of the CSD reported.

Duerr reported last night that the proposed county service area would be charged at the same rate charged Marinwood district home owners for fire protection. This is slightly more than 45.5 per cent of the district's budget, supported by a $1 per $100 assessed valuation tax.

COUNTY TAX CUT

The gross rate on the county service area would thus be 45.5 cents, but the 18-cent rate now charged by the county for structural fire protection would be eliminated.

Mrs. Bolding said total cost for fire protection in the Marinwood district is $32,000. If the contract with upper Lucas Valley should be taken up, the CDS's costs would increase by $24,500. Duerr said the proposed tax would bring in from $13,800 to $16,500 in additional revenue from upper Lucas Valley.

Figured in the increased cost, however, would be $6,000 in annual payments on a new 1,000-gallon pumper truck. Mrs. Bolding reported directors agreed this should not be charged against Lucas Valley residents since the district has to purchase it to protect recently constructed apartment buildings.

NEW MEN NEEDED

There would also be an initial charge of $1,400 to purchase radio alarms for volunteers in upper Lucas Valley.

The CDS would increase its force from two men and a chief to four men and a chief. The additional pumper would give the district two large trucks, plus a pickup truck.

Mrs. Bolding said all operations would be out of the present station, with no substation contemplated.

Next step is for the home owners to act on the proposal. If they approve, it will be up to them to initiate hearing procedures before the county board of supervisors. County service areas are not yet subject to review by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

ELECTION POSSIBLE

Protest by 10 per cent or more of the registered voters in the area could force an election on forming the district, Mrs. Bolding said.

The CDS board last night also approved 50-cent an hour increases for tiny tot instructors, putting the pay at $4 an hour for instructors and $2.50 for assistants.

The board adjourned until 8 p.m. Wednesday to review specifications for the 1,000-gallon pumper.

Millionaire Wins His Case

PASADENA (AP) — Albert Otis Birch, the 96-year-old millionaire who married his 59-year-old nurse last October, has been declared mentally competent.

Birch, now living in Odessa, Tex., was granted court permission yesterday to transfer conservatorship of his estate from the Security First National Bank in Pasadena to the U.S. National Bank to San Diego.

Superior Court Judge Frank Wickham said he based his decision on a psychiatrist's testimony. The doctor said that although Birch was deaf, almost blind and crippled, he was able to make intelligent decisions.

Accidents May Bring Demerits

The Marin County Safety Commission will consider a demerit system to penalize employees in avoidable on the job accidents.

The commission yesterday agreed to hold a workshop discussion on the proposal for 8:30 a.m., Feb. 2 at the Civic Center. Nelson, a member of the commission, said the demerits could carry a recommended disciplinary action and could lead to dismissal of an employee if he or she collected enough of them.

One Of Eight In Jail In Assault Case

One of eight youths charged with statutory rape of a 15-year-old runaway San Anselmo girl was arrested today by San Rafael police.

Held in county jail in lieu of $550 bail was Robert Dale Litteral, 19, of 9 Taylor Street, San Rafael. He was scheduled for arraignment on the felony charge in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Five other persons, Paul Lance Keever, 22 Heather Way, Larkspur; George Jeffrey Dias, 172 Prince Royal Drive, Corte Madera; Chris Clauset, also of 9 Taylor Street, San Rafael; Edward Bonadeo II, 45 Heather Way, Larkspur, and Stephen Miller, 32 Edison Avenue, Larkspur, have been notified by letter to appear for arraignment at 1:30 p.m. Monday on the identical charge.

Warrants for the arrest of the remaining two, William Henry Paraspolo, and Jerome Louis, have been issued.

Investigators said the eight allegedly had sexual relations with the girl between Dec. 7 and Dec. 12 at her newly rented apartment in Larkspur. She was taken to Juvenile Hall, then released to her parents, according to Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark.

Burglar Uses Pillow Case To Haul Loot

A burglar apparently used pillow cases from the master bedroom to carry off his loot of fur coats, jewelry and cash, amounting to $8,000 to $9,000, yesterday from the Harry Melmon home at 7 Barn Road, Belvedere.

Melmon reported to the Belvedere police that he and his wife discovered the burglary on returning at 11:30 p.m. after spending the day in San Francisco.

Police said entry was through a sliding door which had been pried open. Drawers in the bedroom were ransacked and jewelry taken. Also a jewelry box was missing, along with rings, cuff links, watches, ear-rings and other items it contained. Melmon told police six $20 bills in currency were also taken. Two fur coats were missing from the hall closet.

Pillow cases had been taken from the bed in the master bedroom.

Homeowners Seek Road Landscaping

The Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Assn. voted last night to seek landscaping of the road leading into Bel Marin Keys.

It voted to send a letter to the Marin County public works department to see if this could be done and the cost of it.

The association authorized the printing of local building restrictions, to be distributed to all home owners.

William Hanson was named to investigate getting one-way signs for the divided portion of Bel Marin Keys Boulevard. Clyde Wrightsman was named to get a lighted community billboard at the community center.

Refuse Service To Seek Hikes

Bay Cities Refuse Service last night asked Marin City Community Services District directors to increase garbage collection rates from $1.75 a can a month to $2 a can, reported Gabe Jackson, secretary-treasurer of the district.

The increase would not apply to low-cost housing units administered by the housing authority.

Directors indicated they favored the rate increase, Jackson said, but took no action on it. A representative of the garbage company was invited to attend the Feb. 16 meeting to discuss the increase.

WAR

were designed to cut off three major rail routes by which war supplies are shipped into Hanoi.

North Vietnam reported yesterday four U.S. planes were shot down. The U.S. spokesman said two planes were lost with three crewmen.

While fighter-bombers struck the north, huge B-52 bombers streaked across South Vietnam's Mekong Delta coastline and dropped tons of bombs into a Viet Cong base camp 22 miles northeast of the resort area of Vung Tau in support of U.S. operations in the delta.

Formal announcement of the projected peace conference on which Ashmore was working, was made last night at a Beverly Hilton Hotel dinner by Robert M. Hutchins, president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. The center is an educational organization, headquartered at Santa Barbara, and operated by the Fund for the Republic Inc.

Hutchins said it was hoped that representatives of both North Vietnam and Communist China would attend the peace convention scheduled for May 23-28 at Geneva, Switzerland. Russia already has indicated it will send emissaries.

Ashmore, reporting on his trip, said he agreed with reports by other Western observers that American bombers have hit nonmilitary targets, including schools, in raids on North Vietnam.

"It does not seem to be effective in really reducing the war effort. This is a country of very high morale. I would say this type of bombing will not end the war."

"I think they see the war as a stalemate," he said. "But they will fight it as long as they have to. All the persons we talked to said there could be no peace talks until the bombing stops."

Goldwater, on the other hand, suggested that the United States abolish any restrictions on its military leaders in the Vietnam war. He noted that many targets were forbidden as objectives of aerial strikes and that Washington must approve all targets.

"I don't think this is any way to run a war," Goldwater said.

Asked if an invasion of North Vietnam would be a good idea, he replied, "We may have to consider it, but I would say 'no' right now."

Chamber Seeking Bond Petitions

Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce, 85 Throckmorton Avenue, will be open all day tomorrow to receive signatures on petitions to consolidate the proposed $500,000 sewer bond measure with the April 18 school board election.

Deadline for the petitions is 5 p.m. Monday.

A total of 750 signatures is needed. Granville L. Beedle, secretary-manager of the chamber, estimated 300 to 400 signatures have been collected.

Hospital Is Most Filled In History

Marin General Hospital today had the highest number of patients in its history—200—as generally crowded conditions remained in all the county's hospitals.

Ray Bollinger, Marin General administrator, said only emergency cases were being accepted. He said the 200 was the most the facility has handled since opening in 1952.

The only beds available, he said, were two in the heart treatment unit, one in intensive care, seven in pediatrics, and seven in obstetrics, a total of 17.

A spokesman at Ross General Hospital reported only one of the 149 beds available this morning, but expected four patients to be discharged this afternoon.

Administrator Milton Scott of Novato General Hospital also reported a full house, but said conditions at this time of the year were such that he might have as many as seven beds available within a few hours.

At Kaiser-Terra Linda Valley Hospital, a spokesman counted 24 free beds out of 97.

Administrator Donald Barksdale of Center Medical Hospital in Kentfield could not be reached for comment. That 99-bed facility was full Monday, however.

BAKER

Kerr died of a heart attack.

Today, Williams put Baker on the stand and began questioning him about 1961, the first of two years in which Baker is accused of evading taxes totaling about $22,000.

Baker blamed most of his financial difficulties on the fact that one of his partners in the Carousel Motel venture at Ocean City, Md., had died in March, and that one day later the worst storm in East Coast history hit the beaches at Ocean City, doing extensive damage to the Carousel construction job.

Baker also testified that his secretary, former beauty queen Carole Tyler, was responsible for errors cited by the government in challenging his income tax returns.

Baker said Miss Tyler—killed in a private plane crash in the spring of 1965—made some miscalculations in putting together figures for an accountant who prepared his returns.

Baker said reports of income from a land deal with Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., went unnoticed until he was cleaning out his files in October 1963.

Smathers' name was thus added to a growing list of big names that have come out at the trial.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

TODAY: 12:20 a.m., Novato—Backfire in carburetor set fire to wiring on auto belonging to Lester Jensen of Petaluma on Highway 101.

CHINA

has divided the nation and brought it near civil war.

Japanese and East European correspondents in Peking reported the suicides as Gen. Lo Jui-ching, the former army chief of staff, and Vice Premier Po I-po, a top government economics expert, both anti-Mao.

A Peking broadcast last night said Mao's opponents had taken the battle into the countryside in an attempt to win over the 500 million peasants who have been a mainstay of Mao's strength.

Tonight's broadcast indicated the situation was much more serious with anti-Mao peasants pouring into the city led by backers of President Liu Shao-chi.

The correspondents also reported that Communist party Secretary General Teng Hsiao-ping and Supreme Court President Yang Hsiu-fang attempted suicide but failed. Both men have been attacked for following a pro-Soviet line and Liu was believed under house arrest in Peking.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, in a dispatch from Peking, also reported that pro-Mao Red Guard youngsters have seized Vice Premier Ho Lung, an army marshal who is vice president of the people's defense council.

Ho was accused of plotting with "reactionary elements" in the army, air force and navy to overthrow Defense Minister Lin Biao, Tanjug said.

Lin was reported by Hong Kong newspapers to be working for the past few weeks to swing all of China's military forces to the Lin-Mao side.

IN MEMORIAM

NETTRO, ARTHUR "JIM"—In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, ARTHUR "JIM" NETTRO, who passed away JANUARY 20, 1963.

We often sit in silence
No eyes may see us weep;
But forever in our aching hearts
His memory we will keep.

The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear;
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where parting is no more;
And that the one we truly loved,
Has only gone before.

The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay;
But love for him who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.

Fire District Election Set In November

Tamalpais Fire Protection District commissioners last night postponed the district's election to Nov. 7 to conform with new state election laws.

An election had been scheduled April 4, but Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendricks yesterday advised that commissioners' terms expiring in April will, instead, expire in November. Also, Hendricks said terms expiring in April, 1968, will expire next November. Commissioners serve three-year terms. Terms of commissioners Byron O. Boulware and John F. O'Conner were to expire this April, and those of Carl H. Modell and Janet Taylor in April, 1968. Commissioner Morris Batz's term was to expire in April, 1969, but under the new law will expire in November, 1969.

Chief Herbert Owen reported his department answered 309 fire and assistance calls in 1966. Fire caused $20,000 property damage in the district during the year, he said.

San Rafael To Offer Guitar Playing Class

Six weekly lessons in guitar playing will be started Feb. 1 by the San Rafael Recreation and Park Department in the Community Recreation Center, Second and Brooks Streets, San Rafael. Beginners will be at 7:30 p.m. and intermediate students at 8:30 p.m.

Alan Eshelman will be the instructor. Registration will be on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

LBJ Popularity Sags Deeply At Mid-Term

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson reached the halfway mark of his first full term today with his popularity at its lowest level since he moved into the White House.

Despite the mid-term popularity slump — it usually strikes chief executives — Johnson is expected to seek a second full term in the 1968 elections although he has not committed himself yet.

Recent public opinion polls show the President's popularity has dropped sharply since he had almost unanimous support on taking over the office.

Some of the surveys show Johnson trailing the frontrunning GOP presidential possibility, Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

Johnson trailed no one when he took office after his landslide victory over Republican Barry Goldwater.

But his sinking popularity was evidenced in Nov. 8 voting when Republicans scored much greater Congressional gains than expected. The President, because of his trip to the Manila Conference and pending surgery, offered Democratic candidates little help in their campaigns.

But his Great Society and conduct of the Vietnam War also drew the ire of Democrats.

Belvedere Tax Protest Loses Court Battle

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court has ruled that the county board of equalization's determination of tax assessment for 193 Belvedere property owners is final.

His summary judgment dismissed without trial a suit asking that alleged over-taxation for the past fiscal year be reviewed in its entirety by the court.

Motion for the ruling was made by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney Dec. 12 on grounds that the board of equalizations' decision should be conclusive and not subject to court review.

The suit by 193 Belvedere taxpayers, filed last March 28, asked refund of taxes paid under protest.

The complaint said the taxpayers felt they were deprived of a full and impartial hearing, and were victims of "a systematic, wilful, intentional, unfair and unequal evaluation" of their property.

Sinatra Ordered Before Grand Jury

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Frank Sinatra has been subpoenaed to appear next week before a federal grand jury investigating the alleged "skimming" of gambling profits in Nevada gambling casinos, it was learned today.

Until 1963 the singer was a part owner and licensee of the Cal Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe and the Sands Hotel here. He lost the license for entertaining Chicago underworld figure Sam (Moe) Giancana at Cal Neva.

Tiburon Board Wants Use Of Railroad For Hikers

The Northwestern Pacific Railroad right of way in Tiburon should be retained for a local rail transit line with hiking and bicycle trails beside it, the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission declared last night in a resolution addressed to the city council.

The commission urged the right of way, which is to be abandoned by the railroad, be acquired by the city to "enhance the outdoor natural character and beauty" of the area.

Preserving the railroad tracks after the Northwestern Pacific Railroad abandons its Tiburon lines, could help solve the downtown parking problem by providing a small train to transport commuters, students, shoppers, residents and visitors to the downtown area, said the resolution.

The commission felt the property is large enough for both uses.

Commissioners also asked the council to obtain encroachments for the city to landscape all of Tiburon Boulevard, with the project to be designed, planned and supervised by the commission.

Free guidance was offered by a former resident, Richard Lowry of the firm of Kahl and Lowry, San Francisco architects. Lowry offered to give commissioners copies of a 20-page report he has prepared suggesting policies for parks, planning, financial feasibility studies, land acquisition, maintenance, annexations, etc. The reports will be presented at Sixteen Marin County officials and businessmen will leave Hamilton Air Force Base Tuesday morning as guests of the Air Force, to be flown to Colorado Springs to inspect North American Air Defense Headquarters and the Air Force Academy.

They will be returned to Hamilton on Thursday.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Dominic's Ready To Launch Pioneer Dinner Restaurant

Something rather new for Marin—a combination of theater and gourmet dining—is to be offered at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant commencing Friday night, Jan. 27.

Dominic's "dinner theater" will be launched in the upstairs L'Escalier Room with a performance of Leslie Stevens' three-act "Champagne Complex" performed by Armour-Carr Productions. Restaurant owners Herbert Crocker and William McDevitt plan to follow this up with a variety of other performances on a regular schedule.

L'Escalier Room has been set up to handle about 80 diners. If the idea takes hold as they believe it will the downstairs banquet area may have to be utilized. But right now it's in the intimate stage—and who knows? That may be the place to leave it.

Menu during the performance is a good one: Mixed green salad au basilico, coquille St. Jacques, canard à l'Orange or roast prime ribs of beef, Parisian potatoes, creamed spinach and broiled tomato provencal—and baked Alaska flambe. All with appropriate vintages. Price of $10 per person includes dinner, theater ticket, wines, tax and tip.

I can hardly imagine this not being popularly received. It would be wise to make an early reservation.

Though Dominic's is what is usually described as a "commercial" restaurant, it is not out of line for such a place to indulge in gourmet viandry, and that does happen here. If you cover the menu thoroughly you'll see it can be tapped by the discriminating for tourneys Rossini, rack of lamb (beautifully done), steak Wellington, chateaubriand and many of the extras that make dining out an occasion.

One of the nicest touches at Dominic's recently has been the advent of Mark Williams, new pianist in the lounge. No sing-along entertainer is Mark. His music is the background type for enjoyable listening, not participation, and his repertoire is a large one: musical comedy selections, current ballads, medleys and standard favorites.

Mark is a product of the Juilliard School of Music and George Shearing's instruction. His credits include Grand Canyon Lodge, Arizona; Naniloa Hotel and Kona Inn, Hawaii; and the Dublin House in Seattle. His hours at the 88 are from 5:30 to 9:30 p. m. Monday; to 10:30 Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; 7 to midnight on Friday and from 7 to 1 a. m. Saturday night.

THE LOUISE—AL AND JOE are back on Fourth Street, San Rafael—or they soon will be. By the middle of next week or sooner.

This time they are seven or eight blocks from the old 751 Club at Fourth and C—at 535 Fourth Street, to be exact. This is where Joe Scotti has been remodeling the Four Star Buffet and was hoping to reopen the bar tonight. Bar has moved across the building to the west side, so the dining room can be set up nearer the kitchen. The latter, by the way, gives Al and Joe more room than they ever had at the 751 or even at Black Point Inn where they have been until recently.

With them from Black Point Inn has come Marge Losinger and she will perform with her usual speed and dispatch at the tables. Look for the Louises to serve both at noon and at night—Chinese and American. And for a stream of business people at lunchtime, and loyal diners at night to enjoy their Cantonese seafood dinner, chicken almond or sauteed lobster steak.

MEANWHILE, at Black Point Inn, Jess Fisher has set up his dining room on the American plan, serving dinners from 6 to 10 Mondays, Wednesday and Thursdays; 6 to 11 Friday and Saturdays; and Sundays from 5 to 10. There's also a Sunday brunch from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. and Tuesday nights is set up for Jess' $1 spaghetti feed.

THERE WILL BE a new name—Blue Finn Inn—for Pier 16 in Sausalito when it reopens next month under the new ownership of Rico Blacow, Johnny McKeon and Buck Stevens, completely remodeled.

Blue Finn Inn's new menu will be an extensive seafood carte in the $2.95 to $4 complete dinner range, plus a la carte. Lunches from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. and dinners from 5 p. m. to midnight. Probably open seven days a week.

ACCORDIONIST AL STONE, formerly at La Petite Auberge, San Rafael, tells me he is now playing at the Plate of Brass in the Sir Francis Drake Hotel at Sutter and Powell streets, San Francisco. It could be that you'll be dining there one of these days, so good reason to look him up. He's on from 5:30 to 9:30 p. m. Mondays through Saturdays.

THE SPINNAKER in Sausalito has reopened after its annual housecleaning and refurbishing which goes on each year at this time.

AND UP ON THE HILL, Le Vivoir in the Casa Madrona Hotel is now closed for the very same procedure. Open again early in February.

LOUIS MAGRETTI is the new chef at the Sausalito Inn (formerly where Peter Alioto's Arbordale was). Look for some of his Italian specials—chicken cacciatora, cioppino and the like. He also makes his own soups. Other culinary attractions are file of sole Marguerite and New England mixed grill.

MARK WILLIAMS

Sausalito Inn may start serving breakfasts later. Present hours are 11:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. for lunch; dinners from 6:30 to 11; Sundays straight through without a cut-off.

TONIGHT THROUGH SUNDAY the folk-rock group "Wilderness Flowers" is winding up its appearance at the Ark in Sausalito. They were formerly at the Avalon in San Francisco.

THERE'S A NEW food operation at Wilshire Towers, across the 101 Highway from the Marin County Civic Center—where David Woo, formerly at the Brothers 2 in Northgate, is master of the cuisine. He has a Chinese special on the lunch. Dinners are steaks, filets, chops, lobster and some specials. Hours of service are now from 7 a. m. to 1 a. m. throughout the week.

ARTIST Al Newman, a Terra Linda resident and program director for Radio KSFO, has put his paintings on display at Sam's in Tiburon this week — everything from pastorals to a new experimental technique. The latter so far has left him untouched and unsinged—paintings produced by coating firecrackers with wet paint and then exploding them on the canvas.

TOMASO CUCARO is new chef at Thirty-Nine Main in Tiburon. The menu has been revised, with food service from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6 to 10 p. m. seven days a week. Tomaso's dinners run to beef Stroganoff, cacciatora, veal scallopi and parmesan, chicken saute sec, steaks and abalone steaks. Ask for your Italian favorite—he'll fix it.

Piano music from 8:30 p. m. to 1:30 a. m. Wednesdays through Sundays, and Dixieland music also on Sundays from 3 to 8.

Legal System Study Slated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch has announced plans to form a group of statewide commissions to study the need to change California's legal system.

"All the public must be involved in the renewal of our system of justice if it is to succeed," Lynch said yesterday in a talk to the Lawyers' Wives Club. The commissions would be privately financed but would work with the Justice Department and other agencies, he said.

No Real Tax Reduction Without Spending Cut

Tax reform, particularly the lowering of property taxes, is uppermost in the minds of the legislators in Sacramento.

With the economy-minded Republican Administration at the helm, lawmakers may be encouraged to redouble their efforts toward the lowering of property taxes. But the process will be slow and tedious. We cannot expect too much, too fast.

Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel outlined some of the problems accompanying a major tax reform, in a recent radio report to the county.

If property taxes are reduced, how do we balance the budgets of local governments? he asks.

Reducing expenditures could be one answer. But the experience of local governments in the past few decades has been that major trimming in the budget—enough to bring substantial lowering of property taxes—has been almost impossible. The main effort of local government has been directed to keeping costs from increasing more than they have.

Assuming that cost of local government cannot be substantially reduced, where do we get the money to offset a reduction in the property tax?

One possibility would be for the state to finance the cost of education and welfare. That would be fine for local government, but where would the state get the money to assume the local property taxpayers' contribution to these activities?

The answer would lie in increased taxes elsewhere—perhaps increased income tax, tobacco tax, or taxes on services, sales, etc.

In any event, what some of us might save in property taxes, we will be paying out in some other form of tax. The burden of taxation may shift to some extent, away from the property owner. But not much, because the property owner too would be paying more in other taxes.

These are some of the problems pointed out by the Marin assessor. They indicate that there is no magic or painless formula for lowering property taxes without an attendant rise in other forms of taxation.

The only real relief can come from a reduction in government spending, in combining overlapping services, and in eliminating superfluous agencies.

The Reagan Administration in Sacramento is making a valiant effort, even at the expense of stepping on sensitive toes.

We hope that some of this economy move, spearheaded in Sacramento, will filter down to the local areas, and that local public bodies will make an even greater attempt "to match outgo to income, instead of always doing it the other way around."

Every Time We Burn

Coal. Oil. Gasoline. Wood. All the fuels that are consumed in smoke by the millions of tons each year add vast amounts of carbon dioxide to the atmosphere. Since 1860, according to some scientists, this burning has added 14 per cent more carbon dioxide.

It is a harmless, colorless, tasteless, odorless gas, beneficial to plant life. But some scientists say it has a "greenhouse-effect"—permitting sunlight to heat the earth's surface and at the same time reducing radiation. Thus making the world climate warmer by imperceptible degrees.

To Marinites in winter's cold, this seems like a peachy idea. But some optimistic scientists, who believe that the world will survive another 2,000 years, are reportedly concerned that the heat will be such by that time to melt the polar ice caps and submerge most coastal cities.

As though there wasn't enough to worry about in our own three score and ten, these dreamers want us to project our thoughts ahead 2,000 years. No, thank you.

MARIN POLITICAL VIEWS

Hatfield-Fulbright-Kennedy Movement Spreads To Marin

By WAT TAKESHITA

Takeshita

A MOVEMENT IS being launched in Marin, Sonoma and Napa counties to start a bi-partisan organization to oppose American military involvement in Vietnam.

It's being called the HFK Bi-Partisan Associates. The initials HFK represent Mark Hatfield of Oregon, a Republican, and Democratic Senators J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas and Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

One of the sparkplugs behind the movement is Dr. George E. McCabe of Santa Rosa, who ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1964.

The tentative plan is to limit membership to Democrats and Republicans who hold partisan offices or non-partisan elective offices (central committees, city councils, supervisors, school trustees etc.)

"WE DO NOT feel that we have any simple answers to the complex problem in Vietnam," says McCabe. "We believe that not the least of the complexities is finding politically feasible alternatives. It is our purpose to generate as much public support as possible for a broad coalition favoring de-escalation and political rather than military solution to the Vietnam war.

On the issue of Vietnam, this new group seems to stand somewhere between the "remain firm" policies of the Johnson Administration and the "immediate pullout" policy of some of the peace advocates.

THE EVER-ACTIVE Fred Ullner of Santa Venetia is off on another crusade. He says he's going to start collecting signatures for a referendum to introduce night harness racing in California.

"We have day racing now, so why not night racing?" he asks. "New York took in more than $67 million in pari-mutuel taxes on night racing in one year. We estimate California can take in $100 million. It's a painless form of revenue, and would offset a quarter of the state's present deficit."

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE of how bills stack up in the Legislature, many of them contradicting each other and working at cross purposes:

Assemblyman Larry Townsend of Torrance introduced AB 51, requiring polls to remain open until 8 p.m. Then came Charles Chapel of Redondo Beach with AB 63, requiring all polling places to close at 7 p.m. March Fong's AB 69 provides for polling places to close at an unspecified time, while AB 231 (George Milias, Los Gatos) provides all polls shall be open from 7 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

No wonder that by the end of the session, you have some 6,000 bills crammed into the legislative hopper.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Tam School

Decision Poor

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The decision of the Tamalpais Union High School Board of Trustees to proceed with working drawings of the third increment at Redwood High School should be viewed with great concern. The refusal of this powerful agency to consider the wishes of the communities in the Redwood attendance area is another example of the failure of big government to respond to the voice of the people.

The construction of a factory to house 3,000 students, which devours freshmen at one end of the assembly line and spits out graduates at the other can hardly produce a facility providing for quality education. In such a school, each student would become a "number," processed through a computerized system of robot education. It is unlikely he could expect much individual guidance and counseling. In the relatively low density of suburban Marin, there is no need for such a large high school plant.

If this action of the board is permitted to stand, the high school students of the Tiburon Peninsula for the next ten years will continue to travel several miles to school. (The greatest distance in the district excluding sparsely populated West Marin.) This area, experiencing the greatest rate of growth, will be deprived of the convenience of a high school. In direct contrast, one of our other communities is being forced to provide for the impact of an oversized school, a paradox that demands clarification.

The threat of double sessions is a scheme commonly employed to force public acceptance of an unwanted program. The "Tam" board could undoubtedly be more successful if they adopted a bond proposal which both alleviated the crowded conditions at Drake and increased the facilities in the southern part of the district.

The expenditure of funds for working drawings to expand Redwood would be considered an irresponsible action and a waste of taxpayers' money.

Junior High Posters Help Cigarette War

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Re "Smoking Film a Great Success" on editorial page "What Our Readers Say" of Friday, Jan. 13. Would like to add accolade for the poster contest sponsored by Marin Medical Society Auxiliary about five years ago.

Art students of Hill Junior High took great interest and made marvelous posters which caused many adults at open house to look and ponder and probably caused the 12-13 year olds to think before beginning smoking.

We of Hill art department wish the contest would be repeated. A little prevention at junior high age is an excellent precaution.

Mill Valley Reader Anti Art Commission

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Another commission for Mill Valley ??? A proposed "Art Commission!!!" An ordinance to specify that the Art Commission "shall encourage, promote, and foster visual and performing arts in the City of Mill Valley."

Do commissions encourage, promote, and foster, or do they encumber? Often, after being established, they assume powers beyond those granted them; become, or attempt to become, a policy making administrative body, rather than remaining a powerless recommending body whose only duties are to study and make recommendations to the city council. Not only do commissions have this tendency but committees as well. An example: The Architectural Advisory Committee.

An Art Commission! In the field of the arts the performers (artists) require freedom absolute. Art, in any form, is an expression of an individual; eccentric in any ways, often independent; qualities that set artists apart. Art control, by a commission, could not help but dictate conformity, thereby destroying the very thing it was formed to enhance.

A commission is not needed to promote or foster art. Artists themselves have always fostered and promoted their talents, and can, have, and will present plans for performances, or displays, to the city council for approval. If approval is granted they will have the administrative body of the city to aid them in properly presenting their program at no cost to the city.

We are fortunate to have one councilman voicing his disapproval of forming this commission. It is to be hoped that many citizens will appear at council meetings to back him up, to show an interest in city affairs, not to remain in the background willing to "Let George Do It" alone.

Homeowner Sees Dismal Future

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The Big Political Show in California is now on the road for another four years. The din and blare in the Jamborees ahead will be ear splitting on various issues, dealing with inflated taxation. There is no doubt some ears will tingle and turn to rosy red.

We humble homeowners, taxpayers, voters of both parties bear the crushing burden of this cruel method of modern taxation. The influence of glib hard dollar boys of political oratory will fib-fog the benefit out of any legislation that would alleviate the burden regardless of party line.

Indeed, we see a dim future, a dispossession of our homes, and real property.

Inflated taxation is the untouchable Golden Calf. No one dare cast a shadow upon it when it comes to asking a reduction in property taxes. These hard money boys never had it so good. They will buck the little fellow taxpayer at every turn in the road, regardless of party line. This spite your face by losing your nose for the sake of what—Nevertheless, we're in this stew together.

We must petition any representative remiss in his duty, who does not favor tax reduction to alleviate the tax burden of the common taxpayer.

Those who legislate hard money policy with more taxation risk an alternative seldom used, a moratorium on taxes by the common taxpayer. This quite likely could ensue.

Mao May Be Setting Himself Up For Greater Infamy Than Stalin

WASHINGTON — Here are a few informed judgments about what is really going on inside Red China and where it is heading.

Q. Will China become less aggressive?

A. Probably not, certainly not for some time, but the turmoil reduces the aid Peking can give North Vietnam and reduces the danger that China will enter the war.

Q. Will this appreciably weaken Hanoi's war effort?

A. I think not because there is solid evidence that Moscow will supply enough military aid to take up the slack.

Q. Are we witnessing an anti-Communist revolt in mainland China?

A. Definitely not at this stage. This is primarily an intra-Communist struggle for power and policy, not an anti-Communist uprising. It is not revolt against the regime but divisive strife within the Communist party itself. Whatever the outcome of the present struggle, China will remain Communist.

Q. Could the continuing turmoil turn into an anti-Communist revolt?

A. Conceivably but not likely. There have been strikes, walkouts, sabotage, and fighting in the streets in which factory workers have been pitted against the violent young Red Guards. But these clashes have not been spontaneous or primarily directed against all Communist leaders. Supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung have one bond in common. Each wants power and neither has any intention of allowing what anti-Communist forces there may be to get out of hand.

Q. What's at stake?

A. Everything. At stake is the succession to Mao who is old and weary. At stake are the policies which his successors will follow.

Before it is too late, Mao is trying to force the future of the Chinese revolution into the image and likeness of Mao. But Mao has proved himself the supreme failure of the 20th century. He won control of China and lost control of his own party. He organized a vast bureaucracy and has so mismanaged the economy that China is less productive than most of the emergent nations. He has suffered total rebuff in Africa. He has thrown away his strongest ally, the Soviet Union. He has alienated almost every Communist country except Albania.

Mao's opponents and potential successors may not know exactly what they want, but they know they want something different than all this.

Q. How is it coming out?

A. Only one thing is certain at this point. Mao cannot dictate the future. He may be able—and most China watchers think it probable — to recapture substantial control of his own regime for a period. But it will be a short-lived victory in which his critics will pay him lip service—and await his passing.

It has been a destructive year for China and for Mao who is as far from realizing his vision for China today as he was at the outset of the purge called the "Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution" he launched months ago.

Q. What will be Mao's niche in history?

A. I give you the verdict of the careful and balanced editor of "Current Scene"—a Hong Kong-based publication devoted to analysis of Red China:

"Although Mao has had the advantage of a historical lesson, he would seem to be setting himself up for an eventual posthumous denunciation which could even surpass that given Stalin."

It took Khrushchev nearly eight hours of oratory to denounce the crimes committed by Stalin in the name of Communism. And Soviet Communism hasn't been the same since.

LBJ's Rudeness Might Hurt Defense Budget

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's astonishing rudeness to a powerful House Committee chairman could foreshadow serious trouble for his defense proposals.

Two weeks before Congress convened, Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, sent a registered letter to the President asking for a conference to discuss the new military budget before it was finally decided.

DESPITE REPEATED inquiries at the White House, Rivers got no reply to his request — until the day before the new session met.

Then, as he was preparing to attend the Democratic caucus which ousted Adam Clayton Powell as chairman of the Labor and Education Committee, Rivers suddenly got a call from the President to come to the White House.

"Grab a cab and come on down, Mendel," said the President. "I'll give you an advance briefing on the defense budget."

"Are all the decisions final, Mr. President?" asked Rivers. "Yes," was the reply. "Secretary McNamara and I are in agreement."

"IN THAT CASE, there is no need for me to miss the Democratic caucus that is just getting underway," said Rivers. "I'll save my suggestions for when your proposals come before my committee."

That ended the conversation. As head of the Armed Services Committee, Rivers is in a key position to exert much weight on the determination of the hotly controversial question of building an anti-missile defense system.

IT'S AN OPEN secret that the Joint Chiefs of Staff strongly favor them.

We predict that Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin will not be reappointed when his term expires in April. Martin, Reserve chairman since 1961, has let the President know he is willing to stay or leave as the President desires.

Johnson will give the job to someone else. It could be Peace Corps director Jack Hood Vaughn, who rates tops with the President. Vaughn was Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs before taking over the Peace Corps last fall, where he has been doing outstandingly.

Stokely Carmichael, stormy "black power" proclaimer and agitator, will give up the chairmanship of SNCC in May, when his term expires. Carmichael is telling other SNCC leaders that he wants to get out of the public eye and concentrate on grass-roots organizing.

MUCH OF the uncertainty related to presidential succession soon may be removed.

Only seven more states need to ratify the 25th amendment to have it take effect.

Approved by Congress in 1965 the presidential succession amendment provides for an orderly transfer of power from the President to the Vice President in the event the former becomes disabled.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who fathered this legislation, is forecasting that the ratification will come sometime in March.

SEVENTEEN STATES approved the amendment in 1966 and 14 in 1965. Before the amendment goes into effect, 38 states must approve.

Ohio, South Dakota, and Georgia are expected to vote ratification before the end of the month. The first state to ratify was Nebraska, on July 12, 1965.

By PAUL PETERZELL

No News Is News Concerning Four Dilapidated Drydocks

If no news is news, then it's news that after six months there is no news about the four dilapidated drydocks squatting in Richardson Bay off Sausalito.

The huge wooden hulks were dragged over here in July from an Oakland shipyard that went out of business to be renovated at Diesel Engineering and Maintenance Co. and there they have been ever since.

DELMAR D. WISE, owner of the Sausalito shipyard, declined to answer 10 phone calls this writer made to him in the last week, so we have to recall what he said about the drydocks in July. Renovation will take about two years, he said then. After that, they are destined for service "about 300 miles away," said Wise in July. He declined to be more specific and would not reveal their owner's name.

Work was to begin as soon as Wise's boat repair pier was rebuilt, but according to Sausalito city officials rebuilding of the pier has not begun. City officials also reported that Wise last month applied for a city dredging permit, apparently so the drydocks can be brought into the shipyard. Approval of dredging permits is up to the city council, and the city is studying his request, officials said.

EACH OF THE DRYDOCKS is 55 feet high, 130 feet long and 90 feet wide. Residents around Richardson Bay often comment the structures resemble battlements of an ancient fort. At present they are several hundred feet off shore, but when towed into the shipyard will appear much larger from Bridgeway than now. Fort Sausalito?

City officials ran to their ordinances when the drydocks first appeared, but found that under present ordinances the Queen Mary could dock in the city for repairs. There simply is no legal control on the size of floating objects allowed in city waters.

CITY OFFICIALS also discovered, however, that the dry-docks were moored in county, not city, waters. Only when towed in for renovation will they come within the city.

But not until the cities of Sausalito and Belvedere said about two months ago they might annex the unincorporated portion of Richardson Bay did county officials decide to look into the matter of the drydocks.

Now, wheels are moving in the county planning department and county counsel's office. "It's a very complicated matter," said one county planning official, "involving many jurisdictions, including several federal ones because it has to do with harbors, etc."

Maybe we should call this a progress report? THE CITY OF Mill Valley celebrated an anniversary last Saturday, yet no song could be heard to mark the event.

The grand day was the second anniversary of approval by the County Local Agency Formation Commission of the proposed annexation to the city of 137 acres of tideland. The annexation is known as "high school-tidelands annexation" because the city used the assessed valuation of Tamalpais High School to try to annex potentially valuable property between the school and Highway 101.

But the property owners foiled the city and took the matter to Marin County Superior Court — where it has been waiting since for a hearing.

"We will prevail, eventually," City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said this week.

THE MOST SILENT suffering group in Mill Valley must be the firemen. Daily, they lavish care on the handsome lawn in front of city hall and snip away at each protruding stalk of grass.

Then along come the downtown dogs to push the soil off the acidity scale, rip up the turf and besmirch the greenery. The first fireman who made a dog a mascot must have been trying to save his lawn.

ART BUCHWALD

State Of The Union Message, Alias LBJ's Credibility Bowl

WASHINGTON — Americans have been subjected to so much football on television this season that it's very difficult for any of us to look at anything except in football terms. I couldn't help thinking as I watched President Johnson deliver his State of the Union speech last week how it would have been reported by two football commentators.

"Good evening, folks. Well, come to the Credibility Bowl, another wonderful State of the Union classic between the Great Society Longhorns and the hardhitting American Solons, who haven't won a contest against the Great Society team in three years.

"THE BACKFIELD for the great Society team is the same as last year. At quarterback for his third year is Lyndon B. Johnson, at fullback Lyndon B. Johnson, at halfback Lyndon B. Johnson. The line is composed of the famed seven blocks of Lyndon.

"The Solons are fielding a strong defensive team of Republicans and Southern conservatives this year and are expected to give Great Society some serious opposition.

"Great Society has won the toss and team captain Lyndon B. Johnson has elected to kick off and receive at the same time.

"Quarterback Johnson comes out of the huddle, takes the snap from center and hands off the ball to the fullback who hits the line for no gain. Halfback Johnson tries a run around end, but the rugged Solon line is holding and once again Great Society shows no down and long yardage. The quarterback rolls out to throw a long pass about taxes, but it's incomplete and Great Society may have to kick.

"IT'S TIME OUT on the field, and seated next to me is one of the great experts of the Credibility Bowl classic, Asa Blotnik. Asa, how does the game look to you?"

"Well, Paul, these are two tough teams, and I think we're going to see quite a contest before it's over. Great Society had many injuries last November, if you recall, and I believe we're seeing the results of it here tonight. I notice that Coach Johnson has decided not to try too many tricks, and he seems to be more interested in consolidating his gains rather than trying any new plays. I talked to him just before game time, and he told me his team was in the greatest shape he had ever seen it. He pointed out they had made more yardage in the last three years than any previous coach had made in the last 20.

"BUT HE SAID this year was the time for testing, and if he didn't get support from the fans, his past victories would have little meaning."

"Asa, where do you think Great Society is weakest?"

"I would say in the calling of the signals. The quarterback calls one play and they run another. Also, if you recall, a few years ago Coach Johnson said he was going to concentrate on a ground attack. But lately he's been taking more and more to the air, and his strategy doesn't seem to be producing any results. Another thing that seems to be hurting Great Society is that many of the first stringers on the team are leaving or have left, and Coach Johnson is having trouble trying to fill the positions. He seems weak in reserves."

"WHAT ABOUT the American Solons?"

"Well, you know they're always playing to the grandstands, and it seems this is the first year they feel they have a chance of holding the Great Society team down. As

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Writer, Austin Maintaining An Anti-Admiration Society

This is about a mutual anti-admiration society of two. Mr. Charles L. Austin and myself. He lives in Corte Madera. A year or so ago he wrote a letter to the editor, in which he was quite concerned about some comments of mine relative to the new planning director. He was very glad I was no longer his supervisor — sort of I'm glad you're gone, youascal you.

I am told he is a city planner. Those of you who read this column regularly may remember that last August I gave some excerpts from a story by Mel Wax in the morning paper. He had just covered the 50th anniversary convention of the American Institute of Planning being held in Portland, Oregon.

HE REPORTED a number of statements made by a list of top notch men in the profession, such as: "We are indulging in agnosticism and admitting we don't know . . . Probably the most outstanding thing we have learned is that we share a rather impressive body of ignorance . . . The Great Society isn't here and we don't know how to get it . . . The magic bullets of city planning have been as yet undiscovered." Wax said that at the convention they "flagellated themselves through long nights and early morning hours talking cheerfully about their inadequacies and doubting (where) to turn next."

Well, on Jan. 10 in the I-J there were some 12 letters to the editor about various subjects. The one by Mr. Austin might have been overlooked by some, so it will be well to repeat it here.

"THE NAIVETE of ex-supervisor Fusselman's column of Dec. 30 gets my 'brickbat.' If one believes the economic development of Marin should be promoted, can one believe that the production of local events — design, construction and manning of floats and parade units, police escorted bus caravans to San Francisco's City Hall, etc., etc., really does promote economic development? Or that mutually laudatory speeches of important personages at City Hall and the ensuing luncheon does anything more than perpetuate that warm air in which lesser politicians flourish?"

"It seems to me that whatever economic development occurs in Marin will result from the purchasing of its residents, and from whatever real advantage it may have to offer to business or industry. No amount of 'great days' of hoopla could (or should) influence any intelligent entrepreneur. Once again, I'm thankful for his retirement from political office. Maybe the county government is beginning to grow up a little." (It is, including money-wise.)

I HOPE HE doesn't fail to do more research for his clients than he did in this case. The 16 buses were filled with business men and members of the most prominent organizations in the county. There were no politicians and I was not in office but working on a salary.

Those were heavy times. There was critical competition from down the peninsula.

Many believed the loss of the trains and ferrys would be disastrous.

We will agree with his views on purchasing power of the residents. This is what was being aimed at to build up that very thing by selling the advantage of living in Marin. For one thing the many hundreds of U.C. students were potential homeowners. We produced among many other things a 1,200-foot 55 minute colored 16 m.m. motion picture depicting all phases of life here in the county. The presentation was with a background of symbolic music. It was run many times at the Treasure Island Fair in 1939 and 40 as well as hundreds of a matter of fact, this is the first time in the history of this game that Johnson's team has been forced to punt."

"Thanks, Asa, and now let's go back to the playing field.

"WHILE WE were talking, folks, there was an announcement over the loudspeaker that defensive back Adam Kicked off the field for clipping and will be benched by the Solons for the rest of the season."

times at places in the Bay Area.

ALL OF THIS influence certainly had a big influence on the growth of the county and we didn't spend a small fortune. We spent our time working, not writing flowery reports.

Greenbrae Tract Approval Sought For Park Site

The Marin County Planning Commission Monday will consider a 13-lot tract in Greenbrae planned on 8.4 acres between Manor Road and Los Cerritos Drive, one proposed for a tennis club and park.

The planning commission meeting will begin at 8 a.m. at the Civic Center, starting with the second introductory course in data processing. Regular planning matters will start being heard at 10:30 a.m.

The Greenbrae tract is number six on the agenda.

Other matters include consideration of commercial zoning on a one-acre parcel now zoned for agricultural and residential use at Bear Valley Road in Olema (item nine) and a variance for a gas station near Sabella's market in Alto where the commission earlier granted a use permit, (item 11).

Discussion of Highway 17 is expected later in the day and is listed as Item 17. Discussed is to be the route east of Highway 101 and approach to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge.

Boy's Injuries Lead To Lawsuit

A 7-year-old San Rafael boy seeks $150,000 in damages in a Marin Superior Court suit for injuries suffered in a bicycle-car collision last April 30.

The suit, filed on behalf of Lonnie Wayne Wilde by his father, Phillip Wilde, 78 Novato Street, alleges that negligent driving by Lorrie Lynne Decker, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Decker, 30 Novato Street, resulted in the Decker car striking Lonnie on his bicycle near his home.

He suffered head injuries and damaged hearing of his right ear, the suit charges.

Shellfish Float Plan Drawing Many Objections

Objections are flooding in to plans by a Balboa man to anchor floats for shellfish cultivation on the western shore of Tomales Bay. Alf E. Ekeland of the Army Corps of Engineers reported today.

Leland D. Christensen has asked the corps for permission to anchor the floats in Sacramento Landing and Duck Cove, one mile north of Tomales Bay State Park.

Ekeland said he had 10 objections so far on file and knew of several others which were on their way to his desk. He said some were from small craft operators, while others were from property owners and persons concerned with natural beauty.

Deadline for objections was today, but Ekeland said there would be slight delay while the objections were processed. He expected it would be Jan. 27 before the exact number was known and "a very long time" before the corps arrived at a decision.

Talks Proposed On Family Life

The Family Life Education Council, sponsored by the Marin Assn. of School Administrators, will seek meetings with school district superintendents in the county to discuss family life problems as they relate to the public schools.

The plan was presented to the association Wednesday at its meeting in Tiburon by Ralph Giovannelli, assistant superintendent of Novato Unified School District.

There will be no February meeting of the association.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Your Opposition Blinks, Then Consider His Choices

Bridge is not normally a contact sport, but in some hands you stand eyeball to eyeball with an opponent, wondering what all the blinking is about.

The little-known Law of Restricted Choice may solve your problem.

A RUFF

East took the ace of hearts and returned the ten for West to ruff. West returned a diamond to the ace, and back came another heart.

South stepped up with the ace of trumps and led the ten of spades next. West covered with the jack, dummy's queen won, and East dropped the eight.

South got to his hand with the jack of diamonds and led a low spade. West followed with the six, and South had his problem.

A FINESSE

If East had started with the singleton eight of trumps, the winning play was to finesse with dummy's seven of spades. But if East had started with the doubleton 9-8, the winning play was to go up with dummy's king of spades. The singleton 8 and the doubleton 9-8 are almost equally likely.

WORKS IT OUT

South used the Law of Restricted Choice to work it out. His reasoning becomes clear if you take 200 hands and assume that in the first hundred East has the singleton eight and that in the second hundred East has the 9-8 of spades.

East must play the eight of spades in all of the first hundred hands because he has no choice.

He plays the eight in only about 50 of the second hundred hands; the rest of the time he falsecards by dropping the nine.

LIKELY PLAN

As a result, the play of the eight is about twice as likely to be made when East has the singleton eight as when he has the doubleton 9-8.

Using this principle is usually a lot more effective than trying to interpret an opponent's blinking.

Norell Slits Skirts, Cinches Waistlines

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK — Slit skirts and cinched waistlines are as sexy as short skirts.

That was the lesson Norman Norell had for his fashion cult at his spring collection opening this week.

The dean of American couturiers, one of the few feared by the French, chose to introduce his style ideas more than two months after most U.S. designers, and in the midst of the European style presentations.

At first the audience which included sultry-voiced Lauren Bacall, was startled over the possibility that Norell had sacked his perennial ladylike look and had joined the mini mob.

HOWEVER, his show openers, those higher-than-thigh belted middy dresses on white-legged lasses, were just a spoof by the most copied and the most expensive of this country's style-makers. Hemlines are a mere inch or two above his model's knees.

Instead Norell presented the womanly body with wide contour belts that inched the natural waistline, and shifts that did not quite hug but skimmed closer to figures than Norell clothes have in nearly a decade.

Far more provocative than a sliced-off skirt was a slither of a sheath slashed vertically, exposing startling amounts of stemwork. Oriental-inspired crepe mandarin dresses in jewel colors were open to the hip on either side, or almost as high in front.

THERE were also belted trench coats, double-breasted and in bold horizontal stripes worn over pure white or soft pastel dresses.

There were hip-length jackets in racing checks, as well as gray flannels and deep navies worn with round-collared jersey blouses tucked into tight-fitting waistbands.

NEW YORK — Mini-skirts opened the show, but these two suit ensembles for spring revealed the traditional chic designing of master Norman Norell. Both fashions have jackets reminiscent of naval officers'—one with a double-breasted four-button closing, the other closed low with a single button. Contrasting bands strip the pockets and sleeves' cuffs. (UPI Telephoto)

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

A Family Would Rather Have A Wife And Mother Who Listens, Is There—

DEAR READERS:

It isn't often I devote a whole column to one letter, but this one deserves it.

DEAR HELEN:

This is in answer to "Disgusted Sitter" who complains because her employer's house is in a mess. Before she complains further, I'd suggest she take complete charge of a family with at least three preschoolers in it, for a whole week. Then, if she wishes to complain, more power to her, but I'll bet it will be mostly, "Oh, my aching back!"

A week in full command of a household, with no Mama there, means she would do — all the laundry, iron, cook good meals on a strict budget, clean sinks, toilet bowls, baby puddles, mop floors, vacuum, dust, change sheets and towels, mend clothes, clean spills, change diapers, remove splinters from fingers, kill a few insects, wash oatmeal out of kids hair and off the table, write a few cheery letters to relatives, defend her purpose in life at least once to someone who scoffs at housewife's work, shop, be civil to door-to-door pests and the dozens of telephone solicitors, make and serve countless cookies and punch. While doing all this, she would, of course, watch the kids, and friends, keep them spotless, happy, healthy and well-fed. To this we might even add the normal demands of a husband, who, coming home exhausted after his eight hours, wants a cold drink, the paper, the whereabouts of his pipe, and to know — "Why didn't you make brownies instead of apple pie?" Why don't we arrange for one of the kids to get sick during Sitter's week to play house? Intestinal flu, perhaps.

Don't misunderstand, I like most teens, but some who are demanding rights and privileges and understanding for themselves, should be more tolerant of us oldsters (I'm 24) who do most of the dirty work of the world.

SPOTLESS HOUSEKEEPING isn't the most important virtue in the world. Being efficient and well organized may ruin a marriage. I'm sure a family would rather have a wife and mother who has time to listen, laugh, love and be just generally there, than one whose big worry is: "Is my house clean enough to pass muster with my baby sitter and visitors?"

We all know the woman who makes herself look 15 years older, just from working so hard on the things which no one will remember 15 years from now, yet her children will look back and wonder why they never really had a mother.

"Sitter" is not being fair. The young wife needs all the encouragement she can get, not criticism. It takes a mother all day to clean house and one child can mess it up in 20 minutes. Also, despite great architectural advances today, most houses are still not "childproof." When those TV giants and white hurricanes and lady plumbers really DO come over to clean our homes in 15 seconds flat, and men on white horses stab our laundry clean, then perhaps Sitter will be justified in expecting our houses to be spotless. In the meantime, she should stop believing in fairy tales and helpful little elves. Teens, give us the tolerance and understanding you so vociferously demand for yourselves!

Helen, my husband is a teacher-counselor, and I am a former teacher. We both see the need to re-educate today's youth about their roles in future life. So many have no real communication at home — they somehow believe that money, appearances and conveniences are all of life.

IT IS A TRAGEDY to me when I see neighbors telling their children, "Not now, I'm too busy." Really they're saying, "I can't be bothered — I'm too involved in keeping up with the Joneses — working to make you seem important but not really loved." (I've caught myself in the "busy" syndrome too — no one is immune.) Then parents wonder later, "Where did we go wrong — he had everything." ... Everything but time for listening and helping him grow up.

Sure it's more trouble to clean up after a four-year-old has "helped" you, but you've added one more particle of positive material to his character. And 20 years from now, is someone going to remember that they found a blob of mashed potatoes on the carpet, or that he has grown into a fine, responsible, outstanding person?

Tolerance is rarely extended to the deserving. —T.I.R.E.D.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Record Florida Orange Crop Brings About Price Slashing

NEW YORK (AP) — All the oranges you can eat—and then some — are being harvested in Florida, and big supplies are moving to market from California and Texas, too.

The latest forecast is for a record crop, up 28 per cent from last year.

Major supermarket chains slashed the price of frozen orange juice concentrate this week.

There are specials on fresh oranges, too.

But canned orange juice and prices have remained generally steady.

Wholesale food prices this week plunged to the lowest point since November 1965, and currently are 5.8 per cent lower than a year ago.

One big reason is lower meat prices.

Hams were down substantially this week, and steers, hogs and lambs also were lower.

Bacon, chops, loin roasts and smoked hams are plentiful in most areas.

An assortment of good value awaits shoppers in the meat departments. In contrast, fresh fruits and vegetables are likely to be more limited than in recent weeks.

Egg prices have fallen across most of the country.

Worthy Advisor To Be Honored

Sally Hasse, worthy advisor of San Rafael Assembly, Order of Rainbow For Girls, will be the honored guest at a farewell meeting at 1:30 tomorrow at the Masonic Hall in San Rafael.

Assisting Nancy Kimberling, general chairman, will be Carole Martin, Kathy Meleco and Karen Berg. Kathy will serve as faith, Carolyn Weikel as recorder and Dianne Smith as treasurer.

Novato Baptist Guild To Meet

A membership ceremony will be held for the guild girls of the Bethel Baptist Church in Novato at 8 p.m., Monday in the fireside room of the church.

Participating in the ceremony will be Kathleen Boyer, Debbie Bledsoe, Dianne Dieterle, Mary and Linda Feaster, Barbie Gorney, Karen Thorson, Jenny Karkaker and Charlene Wyly.

Mesdames Walter Rhorson and James Hill, guild counselors, will conduct the ceremony. A fellowship guild pin will be presented to each girl.

Hoedown Saturday

The Stump Jumpers of Novato will sponsor a hoedown at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the IDESI Hall in Novato. The call for the dance will be Bill Castner, and hosts will be Pius Schwaigh and Mrs. Kathy Vici-lione.

Minister Will Speak

The Rev. Lincoln B. Wadsworth, secretary of the division of church extension of American Baptist Home missions, will speak at the Women's Missionary Society meeting at the Bethel Baptist Church in Novato at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The Rev. Wadsworth, a native of Iowa, was a pastor in churches in New York State and Pennsylvania for 12 years before accepting his present position. The division of church extension aids in establishing new congregations and counsels to churches having building projects.

Mrs. Ralph Luther will give the devotional and following the program, the Nadine Hinchman Circle will serve lunch.

Fabiani Wows His Observers With Square-Shoulder Suits

ROME (AP) — Fabiani gave suits a boost today with a line of short, neat, square-shoulder creations that wowed observers at the Italian spring and summer fashion collections.

He showed that the suit—almost a dirty word in fashion these days—was fast becoming respectable again.

Jackets were square shouldered and short over softly gathered peg-top skirts. Blouses took the form of starched white barmen's vests.

He showed high-shouldered coats that were fitted on top and swept into a flare. His circular-skirted tent shapes are legendary and he produced them this time for dresses as well as the familiar coats.

Guatemalan Report On Teen-Age Life

"Teen-agers-Guatemalan Style" differ dramatically from "Teen-agers-United States Style" the Rev. Robert C. Thorp said in his talk at the United Presbyterian Women's Assn. meeting at the Novato Presbyterian Church Wednesday.

A college instructor, counselor, pastor and missionary to Guatemala for 20 years, the Rev. Thorp identified several characteristics of Guatemalan teen-agers and left it to the audience to compare them with U.S. youth.

He noted that it is a "man's world" — typically a girl is married by the age of 15 and has received little, if any, formal academic training.

Guatemala has a literacy rate of 27 per cent. This problem is compounded by the fact that there are 22 dialects in the Guatemalan language, so that communication is difficult.

The hope of the teen-ager to go beyond the grade school level is extremely dim, only 10 per cent of those elementary school students receive further education. Those financially able to do so, attend school abroad. College students come from the middle economic group and they for the most part are deeply committed to raising the standards of living of the country.

Guatemalans have been relatively untouched by change and continue to live in much the same way as their ancestors, he said.

The Rev. Thorp said "that although there has been a distinct Spanish-Roman Catholic influence in the country for centuries, organized religion has not had the same appeal as in the United States. Pagan worship is widespread among the Indians, who are of the Mayan culture."

The Rev. Thorp, on leave in the United States, said Guatemala, with a population of four million people, is faced with frequent political revolutions and the present government was formed only last summer. A major problem of government exists in the education of the people he said.

Greenbrae P-TA Sponsoring A Parent Education Program

Greenbrae Parent-Teacher Assn. is sponsoring a parent education program for the three schools of the Kentfield School District: Greenbrae, Wolfe Grade and A. E. Kent. A series of four meetings are being held to acquaint parents with the materials available for a family life information program in the home and in the school. A committee headed by Mrs. Hugh Pessner, has arranged for parents to see films, use literature and hear speakers on the subject of the physical growth and development of their children. A parents committee will be formed to present recommendations to school authorities. The first three meetings are to be held in the Wolfe Grade School multipurpose room at 7:30 p.m.; the fourth meeting will be at Greenbrae School multipurpose room at 7:30 p.m.

Next meeting will be held Thursday titled, "The Confusing Years" with films "Boy to Man" and "Girl to Woman," directed to parents of children in seventh and eighth grades. Dr. Patricia Hallinan of the Marin County Health Dept. will speak.

The third meeting, on Feb. 9, "What Parents Should Know About Narcotics," will feature a film.

At the fourth meeting, March 2, Dr. Roy W. Fairchild, professor of education at the San Francisco Theological Seminary, will speak.

Rod, Gun Women To Hold Banquet

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Marin Rod and Gun Club will hold its birthday banquet and installation on Tuesday, at 6:30 p.m.

Zany 'Penelope' Includes A Beautiful Bank Robber

By LES DARD

Comedy? Drama? Romance? Adventure? No matter what your cinematic preference, there's something in store for you this weekend at Marin theaters:

TAMALPAIS THEATER
"Penelope" is here. Natalie Wood takes the sprightly lead role and is ably accompanied by a big talent cast that includes Ian Bannen, Peter Falk, Jonathan Winters, Lila Kedrova and Dick Shawn. It's a plush farce that's fun all the way.

First to pop onto the screen is Natalie, in one of several disguises. She's an arch-kook and a kleptomaniac who filches baubles from her husband's business associates. As a result she has five sessions a week with psychiatrist Dick Shawn, who soon falls in love with her. So when she comes to the conclusion that her husband is not spending enough time with her it falls right in line that she would want to stick with his newly opened bank and make off with $80,000 in order to get his attention.

101 DRIVE-IN
Mix Audrey Hepburn and Peter O'Toole with a touch of romance, a dash of comedy and just enough suspense, and you have William Wyler's latest tour de force: "How To Steal A Million."

NOVATO THEATER
An exciting arm-chair lesson in human anatomy is the fare with "The Fantastic Voyage," now playing.

SEQUOIA THEATER
Peter Sellers, his wife Britt Ekland, Victor Mature, Akim Tamiroff and Martin Balsam are featured in the zany and hilarious "After the Fox," now showing.

RAFAEL THEATER
You see, there's this awful villain (Karl Malden) who is intent on shooting a death ray at Washington — not to streamline government, as you might expect, but for his own nefarious designs. And so it's up to intrepid, gadget-laden, over-sexed

Matt Helm (Dean Martin) to save the day.

And save it he does, in "Murderer's Row," the second film version of Donald Hamilton's series of novels.

Co-featured is an entry of a much different sort — Cary Grant and Samantha Eggar in Tokyo in "Walk Don't Run." It's his latest, and one of his best.

MOTOR MOVIES
Gregory Peck and Sophia Loren star in "Arabesque," a slick espionage entry of quite another genre, now playing.

Co-featured is a top-flight spy spoof, "A Man Could Get Killed," which stars James Garner, Melina Mercouri, Dee Fanciosa and Sandra Dee.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE
"Gigi," wide screen musical adaptation of the famous Colette novel about the language of love is back.

Winner of a Best Picture Oscar, this delightful show has screenplay, lyrics and music by Lerner and Lowe — the pair responsible for "My Fair Lady." Maurice Chevalier acts the part of a wealthy, carefree Parisian. Louis Jordan plays the richest dandy of all, who is quite bored with everything except little Gigi (Leslie Caron) and her sly grandmother (Hermione Gingold).

Leslie Caron also stars, this time with Mel Ferrer, in "Lili." It's the poor-little-French-girl story that's perhaps better known by its stage title: "Carnival."

LARK THEATER
It's a simply beautiful film. And if you cinema lovers haven't seen "A Man and A Woman," held over, you're missing out.

A young race car driver (Jean-Louis Trintignant), whose wife committed suicide after he crashed at Le Mans, keeps his small son in a boarding school in France. A sensitive, youthful widow (Anouk Aimee), haunted by memories of her dead husband, keeps her little daughter there.

One day while visiting their children, they meet. A tenuous, careful relationship begins that matures slowly as each overcomes the obstacles of loving again. But the end isn't as predictable as it might seem.

NORTHGATE THEATER
World War I — this time through German eyes — is still with us, running under the title "The Blue Max."

George Peppard stars as a ruthless young air ace who's out to win the coveted blue enamel flying cross of the German Air Force — for which he has to shoot down 20 enemy planes.

FAIRFAX THEATER
For a quick change of pace, the fare is "Alfie," also held over, and featuring quick-rising Cockney star Michael Caine. Superb viewing.

Recital Planned
Pupils of Jeanne Massey will give an open house recital at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Marin Piano and Organ Co., 117 Jacoby Street, San Rafael.

Action Halted To Demolish Olema Hotel

The Marin County building department has dropped its demand for demolition of the historic Olema Hotel.

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom declares the building is no longer a fire hazard.

It was Bloom who started the move for demolition by declaring the building a hazard, but this was when transients were able to get into the structure and were sleeping overnight and building fires to keep warm.

Since then, after considerable delay, the building has been boarded up, weeds and rubbish cleared and a ladder to upstairs windows removed.

Several weeks ago the Marin County Board of Appeals supported the county building department's demand for demolition. Next step was a court order to that effect.

Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest said today that after consulting Bloom, the matter has been dropped. In light of improvements, Bloom could no longer testify that the building was a hazard, Forest said.

Sleepy Hollow Highway 17 Plan Opposed

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Assn. opposes any routing of Highway 17 through Sleepy Hollow but considers a route to West Marin essential to the county, association president Herbert A. Brauner reported today.

Brauner, elected at last night's association meeting, said his organization fears the State Division of Highways may allow the matter of a route to drop in view of opposition by neighborhoods affected.

Brauner said, "We plan to write letters to the supervisors" asking them to continue search for a route.

Other officers elected last night were: Robert Flanders, vice president; Marcia Schauer, corresponding secretary; Barbara Rogers, recording secretary; J. G. Ingels, treasurer. Named directors were Donald Luchessa, Frank Jose, and Harry Sannar.

'Trojan Horse' Home On Agenda

A permanent home for Dennis Patton's "Trojan Horse" is on the Corte Madera Board of Design's agenda at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Town Hall.

Patton is asking to put the horse on the property of Vernon Humber east of Highway 101. Patton said Humber will allow his property to be used for the large wooden horse if the town agrees.

Redwood Empire Assn. Decides To Bolster Its Image At Home

A program aimed at "improving the image" of the Redwood Empire Assn. within its own nine-county territory was launched today at a meeting of directors in Tiburon.

President Edwin A. Frediani said: "We are doing a good job so far as external image is concerned but we are losing sight of the fact we get much of our working dollar from inside the counties."

Key figures in the program will be REA county chairmen who, directors agreed, will be giving more responsibility and a greater role to play.

NEW AIDE VOTED
The board also agreed to hire a new field service representative at $750 a month, whose salary and expenses will not exceed $4,000 this fiscal year.

A display booth which Gen. Mgr. Carney J. Campion said would "tell the REA story" both inside and outside the area at sports and vacation centers was authorized, at a cost of about $4,000.

Cost of the field representative and the display is expected to be found by making cuts in other budget items concerned with publicity, said Campion.

FORMAT NEEDED
Frediani said the association has good county chairmen but they lacked an overall format for them to follow.

Subcommittee chairman Robert Trombetta of Santa Rosa outlined 10 suggestions he said would help county chairmen to push the image of the REA as a regional tourist organization, rather than working for one county or the other.

They included appearances before county boards of supervisors at appropriation time, organizing speakers' bureaus, and co-ordinating with the new field representative.

Rec Commission Asks Policy On Library Land

Sausalito recreation commission last night recommended that the proposed library site be reserved as a waterfront park if a $250,000 library bond measure fails to pass on March 7.

The recommendation was a watered-down version of what some commissioners felt about putting the library on the waterfront. Chairman James E. Muldoon said. Some commissioners, he explained, oppose location of any structure along the waterfront.

The 12,500-square-foot site is northeast of Vina del Mar Plaza.

Commissioners asked the city council to have City Engineer Norman Wohlshlaeger estimate the cost of a "finger park" on city-owned tideland at the foot of Locust Street. Commissioner Elmo V. Maggiora presented a sketch of the proposed park which would provide a small green area on the existing embankment, a wharf 10 feet wide and 100 feet long, and a 15 by 25-foot float at the end of the wharf for fishing and mooring small boats.

the value of their contribution in helping the tourist industry of that particular county." He said it would be some redwood motif.

Speaker at a luncheon today was Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who was to discuss problems ahead for counties in the Redwood Empire.

GIFTS TO FIRMS
The board agreed to make "suitable gifts" when called for to new businesses in the region which were oriented to the tourist industry.

Asked why the gift, vice president Leland L. Levinger of Santa Rosa said it was more of a presentation in recognition of

Suspects Held On Marijuana

Mill Valley police last night arrested two Mill Valley youths on suspicion of possession of marijuana after the two were stopped downtown just before the 11 p.m. curfew.

James Robert Chrisler, 18, of 25 Plaza Drive, and his 17-year-old companion were stopped by police on Sunnyside Avenue near Parkside Avenue. Police said they were carrying cigarettes containing what was believed to be marijuana.

Chrisler was booked at county jail and his companion cited into juvenile hall.

Sonic Booms Warning Given

Sonic booms may hit Marin County next Wednesday morning as the Western North American Air Defense region tests air defenses of western United States and Canada.

The 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base will be involved in the exercise, called "Hopi Brave 1." American and Canadian fighters will intercept an "enemy" air strike force of jet bombers and fighters over California, Oregon, Washington, Alberta, and British Columbia.

No suspension of normal air traffic is expected during the exercise, said officers at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Bid Sale Set

Miscellaneous clothing and hardware will be sold at a bid sale at 10 a. m. Feb. 9, by the defense surplus, sales office at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Milk Prices Go Up On Wednesday

The price of milk will go up in Marin next Wednesday by one-half cent or one cent, depending on how you buy it.

The State Department of Agriculture today announced a half-cent increase has been ordered, effective next Wednesday, on milk purchased either by the quart or the half-gallon, both home-delivered and in stores. Actually, however, the increase will be one cent for purchases of single quarts or half-gallons in stores.

The new minimum price in stores will be 26½ cents for a quart, or 51½ cents for a half-gallon. There being no way to break the penny, the actual price will be 27 cents for a quart or 52 cents a half-gallon, with a penny saved by buying two.

For home delivery, the price in quart containers will go from 26½ to 27 cents, and in half-gallon containers from 52 to 52½ cents. Since home-delivered milk is usually paid for by the month, fractions of cents apply more readily.

If milk runs over 4.2 per cent butterfat content, the state decrees that it be sold for 1½ cents per quart more. Not all "premium" milk falls in this category, however, some being sold at a cent or so above the minimum price by action of the distributor.

The agriculture department's bureau of milk stabilization held a public hearing on requests for price increases Dec. 14 in Santa Rosa. Today's price raise order said higher costs of processing and distribution were shown to warrant the increases.

Novato Opens 7th Birthday Celebration

Promptly at 8 a. m. today the bell in the steeple at the Novato City Hall boomed out, announcing the beginning of the city's seventh birthday celebration.

At 10 a. m., doors to the Community House opened to historical and artifact exhibits. The first of 900 fourth grade pupils were taken on a tour of the community house to see the displays.

Tonight there will be a "musical salute to Novato" when the Fourth Air Force Band presents a concert at 8 p. m. This will be followed by a public dance at the Community House, with music furnished by the Novato High School stage band.

A cake donated by City Councilman M. E. Babe Silva will be cut at 10:30 p. m. by former mayors and Mrs. Ted Lane, who moved to Novato the day the city was incorporated.

Tomorrow's activities include open house at both the community House and City Hall at 10 a. m., with the Novamarian Grandmothers as hosts.

Weather permitting, there will be an outdoor concert by the Novato High School band at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, in front of the Community House. At 1:45 p. m. during the concert, there will be a fly-out of 300 homing pigeons. A children's program will be presented the Community House at 2 p. m.

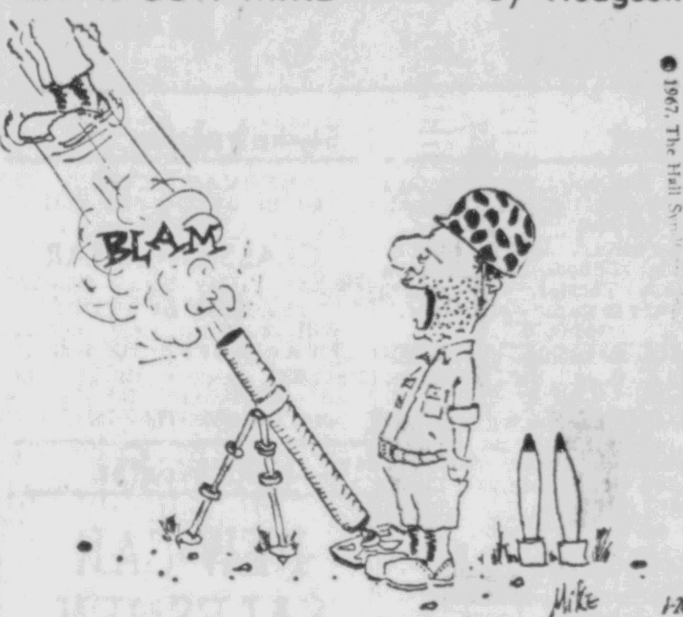

Marin Artists Ready Traditional Exhibit

Marin Society of Artists will exhibit traditional painting and sculpture beginning at 2 p. m. Feb. 5 in the Frances Young Gallery at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The gallery is open 2 to 4 p. m. every day and 7 to 9 p. m. Thursdays.

Lincoln Market Hit By Pair Of Bandits

Two bandits, one armed with an automatic pistol, held up a clerk at the Lincoln Market, 1492 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, for $190 last night, then fled at high speed in a late model compact car.

Police said the two entered the store about 7 p. m. One ordered a candy bar and offered some to clerk Maria Moss. She declined and had begun ringing up the sale when one of the men pointed a pistol at her.

"Stay where you're at," she quoted him as saying. The bandits then reached over the counter and scooped up the cash from the register. They fled to a white Corvair and sped north on Lincoln Avenue, narrowly missing another moving car.

Both were caucasian and between 21 and 25 years old, police said. One was six feet, about hair, and wearing black pants and black gloves.

The other had long blond hair with a wave across the back, and weighed about 180. He wore a tan shirt.

The Lincoln Market, owned by Mario Souza of San Anselmo, an uncle of Police Inspector Gerald Souza, was robbed in September, 1964, of $300 by a pistol-wielding bandit. The robber was caught three days later when he was thwarted from holding up a San Rafael liquor store owned by a former policeman.

Burglar Takes $1,500 Violin

A violin valued at $1,500 and two guns valued at $155 were taken from the home of Michael Letsos at 1591 Hill Road, Novato, between 1 and 7:45 p. m. yesterday, Letsos reported to police.

The violin was inscribed "Joanos Carolos Kirkoum, Prague, 1782," Letsos said.

Entry was through a living room window, police reported.

Board To View Budget Figures

The Kentfield School District Board will consider a preliminary budget for the 1967-68 fiscal year Monday at 8 p. m. at Wolfe Grade School.

Supt. Anthony G. Bacich will present the requests of principals and district departments, but the preliminary budget does not include any provision for changes in salaries. They will be considered next month.

Reports will be given on seventh and eighth grade curriculum.

The board will also consider resolutions on unification elections of the county committee on school district reorganization.

Air Force Dogs Patrol

STRAINING AT THE LEASH — Silhouetted against a dawn sky, Airman Second Class James W. Click and Duke set out to investigate a strange sound near one of the security areas at Hamilton Air Force Base.

(Air Force photos by Master Sgt. Dave Mayhew)

COMING AT YOU—Airman 3/c David Capps unleashed his guard post companion, Skip, on photographer Mayhew to display how an uninvited night visitor to a security area might be greeted. Fortunately, the photograph was taken from behind a sturdy wire fence.

German Shepherd Sentries Fierce Guards At Night

Air Force security went to the dogs in 1955.

And it has never been better since.

That is the way S/Sgt. Earl F. Stegall, non-commissioned officer-in-charge of the Air Police Sentry Dog Section at Hamilton Air Force Base feels about his work.

Heading up an 11-man, nine-dog outfit charged with guarding Hamilton's vital security areas, he runs a tight section.

Rigid training and precise discipline highlight the operation that turns friendly German shepherds by day into fearless animals at night.

Daily sessions pit each man-dog team against other canine handlers posing as unwanted intruders. When the handler removes the normal chair collar and puts on the leather "work" necklace, the animal's whole attitude changes and he becomes a fierce guard, friendly and obedient only to his master.

It is the leather collar that is used during training sessions and while the teams are on duty.

But as ferocious as he may be, there are other reasons a German shepherd makes an ideal sentry.

"A dog is the equal of two or three men on post," Sgt. Stegall commented. "His sense of hearing is terrific — about 20 per cent keener than a man's, and he can pick up a strange scent at better than 250 yards."

Working strictly at night, each team works a nine-day cycle — three days on the 4 p.m. to midnight shift, three days midnight to 8 a.m. and then three days off.

The Army conceived the idea of using four-legged sentries. A 1942 test program begun with nine "recruits" ended two years later with better than $2 million in canines and equipment in the inventory.

The Air Force saw a need for a K-9 corps 10 years later and began training dogs at three sites around the world. In 1958, when the Air Force operation moved to Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., it took on the job of training sentry dogs for the rest of the armed forces as well.

The Texas base now turns out some 1500 K-9s a year with a training tab of about $1,600 a piece.

Just as it is constantly recruiting men, the Air Force is always on the lookout for new dogs. Some are donated but most are sold, and the going price tops off at $150.

ATTACK TRAINING — Airman Capps, wearing a 40-pound suit for protection, braves the wrath of Tiki, being handled by Airman Second Class Anthony Zmijewski during a training session.

NOW LISTEN, SARGE — Eleven-year-old Merritt, oldest canine at the base, seems to be discussing his official records being checked by Staff Sgt. Earl F. Stegall, who is in charge of the Air Police Sentry Dog Section.

CHOW TIME—Airman Click mixes up the daily meal for sentry dogs, two pounds of dry feed, spiced by a spoonful of salad oil and blended with a cup of water.

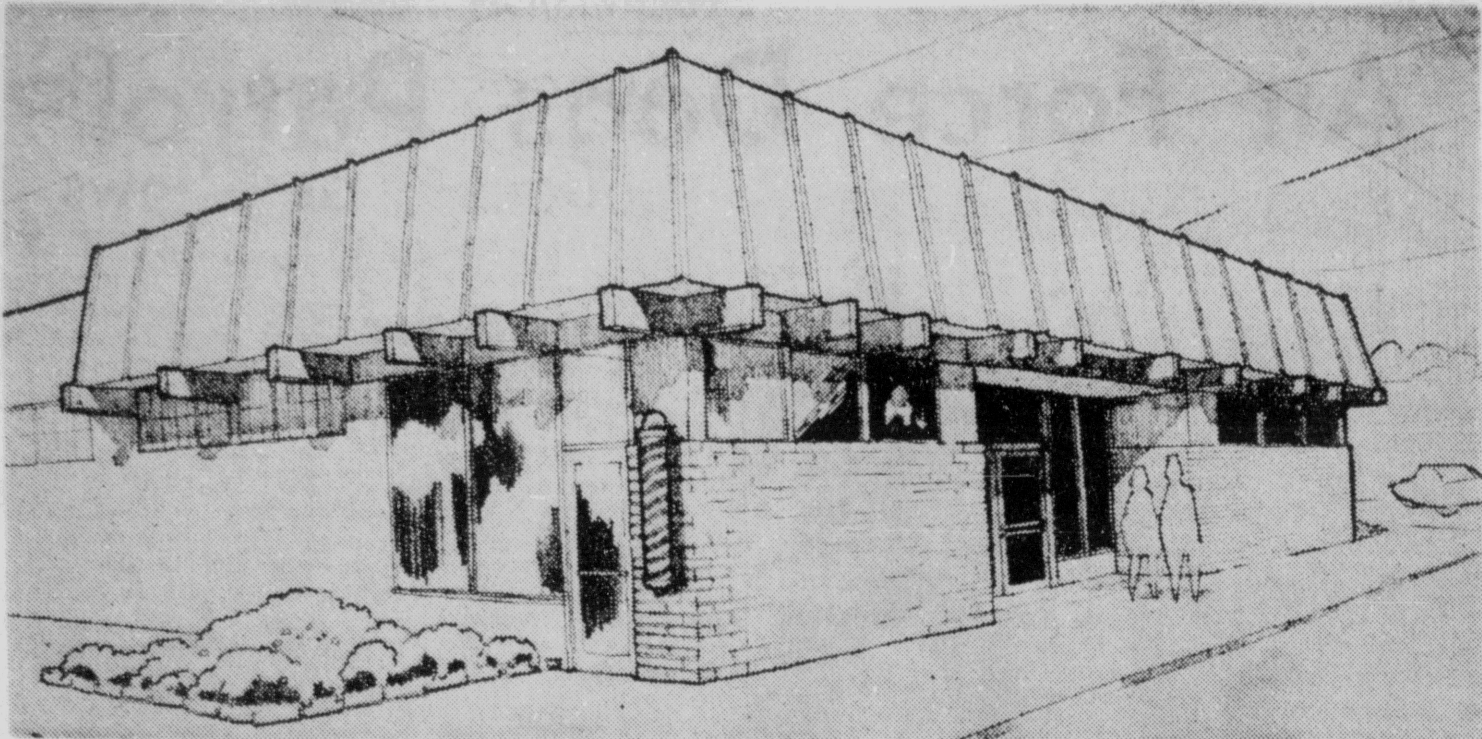

NO FEAR—Even the harsh crack of a .38 revolver poses no problem for Tiki who goes after a weapon-brandishing "enemy" during a training session while handler Airman Zmijewski inches closer.

INTRUDER AT BAY—Airman 2/c Clarence Andrews and Titan hold an "authorized visitor" at bay. Playing the part of the visitor is A2/c James Dean, another dog handler.

FUTURE HOME FOR NEWMAN CENTER

This is what the Guasco Market building on College Avenue, Kentfield, will look like when it is revamped into the new headquarters for the Newman Center at the College of Marin. Rev. Francis O'Brien, center chaplain, said the majority of the remodeling is scheduled to be completed by June 1 when the center has to vacate its present location at 881-885 College Avenue, which was purchased by the Marin Junior College District. As indicated in the sketch, there will be a commercial barber shop occupying a corner of the building. Cost of the project has been estimated at $20,000. (Sketch by Hageman, Thomas, Eklund Inc.)

Goldwater Post-Mortem Credits Ike With Controversial Quotes

By JULES WITCOVER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Former President Eisenhower is quoted in a new book as having referred to the Kennedy-Johnson administration in 1964 as "the Communist government we have seen locking itself on a nation in the last four years."

The quotation is in the appendix of "In a Cause That Will Triumph," a post-mortem on Sen. Barry Goldwater's bid for the presidency by Karl Hess, one of his chief campaign speechwriters.

Hess describes the document in which the quotation is found as a full transcript of the "unity" meeting among Republican leaders at Hershey, Pa., on Aug. 12, 1964. It was held to bind intraparty wounds resulting from the bitter GOP convention at San Francisco a month earlier.

Other excerpts from the purported Hershey transcript have been printed in connection with a recent dispute over Michigan Gov. George Romney's efforts at that time to have Goldwater spell out his views on civil rights and political extremism.

But previous excerpts have not mentioned the "Communist government" quotation attributed to Eisenhower, who has been a strong public supporter of President Johnson on Vietnam.

The observation, according to the book, came while the former President was exhorting his fellow Republican leaders to air their concerns candidly, as a way to improve Goldwater's chances of mounting a winning campaign.

"Let's get our souls bared," the book quotes him as saying, "so that when we go out we can put something together that is worthwhile, that can win, because, gentlemen, I am interested in winning, as I think all of us are, if we are going to get rid of the Communist government we have seen locking itself on a nation in the last four years."

The transcript goes on: "How many of you have read the Wall Street Journal — I guess it was yesterday, yes — Johnson and his pals? Well, brothers, if you haven't read it you should. Then you would begin to see what we are talking about here in changing to return to trustworthy government that is thinking of the nation and just not of the pocketbooks of some favorite people..."

The Wall Street Journal of Aug. 11 ran a story headlined "Lyndon's Pals" that discussed the President's Texas landholdings and the banking connections of Judge A. W. Moursund, Johnson's friend and executor of the trust fund set up to handle his finances when he became president.

Attempts to elicit comment from General Eisenhower about the remarks in the book published by Doubleday and Co., Inc., were turned aside by his executive assistant, retired Gen. Robert Schulz.

General Schulz, reached by telephone at Eisenhower's office in Gettysburg, Pa., would say only that the former president does not comment on the writings of other individuals. The matter of any transcript's authenticity should be referred to the Republican National Committee, Schulz said.

Spokesmen for the national committee said, however, that although there once were transcripts of the Hershey meeting, they probably had been thrown out or taken away by members of the Goldwater campaign after the 1964 election.

Hess in the book says he himself obtained a copy "from a trash basket in the national committee where it had been pitched, along with other documents, in the housecleaning that followed defeat."

Hess says it is "unclear" who was responsible for making a written transcript of the closed-door meeting, but that Dean Burch, Republican national chairman during the 1964 campaign, "had told me that it was Governor (William W.) Scranton (of Pennsylvania, the host at the meeting) who had it made."

Burch "and others involved have vouched for its authenticity," Hess writes. Burch was unavailable for comment Monday.

A spokesman for former Governor Scranton, press secretary Jack Conmy, said the governor "had absolutely nothing to do with the transcript" and would have no comment on it. Cony said he was in the room at the outset of the meeting and a recording and film were made by a movie crew "hired by the Goldwater-for-president people." The transcript, Conmy said, probably was made from that recording.

The transcript as presented in Hess' book also quotes Eisenhower as making a most impolitic, though apparently ingenious, observation about a minority group — on the eve of a national election.

Later in the meeting, he is quoted as counseling his Republican colleagues against saying things that could be taken as offensive to certain groups of voters.

The transcript has him telling about a letter he received after "I made a crack about switchblade knives."

"Well, I got a letter this morning, or a copy sent to me, that this has been taken in Harlem to mean that I took a crack at Negroes. This is news to me because I didn't associate switchblade knives with Negroes."

"What I am saying here is merely this: Language has to be followed or watched very, very carefully all the way through in every statement."

"Normally, I would throw this thing in the waterbasket, but the man who wrote the letter is (Roy) Wilkins, the head of the NAACP. Well, I don't want to hurt my candidate anywhere, so I am going to have an aide write to this fellow and say, well, for God's sake, that's the last thing in my mind, as a matter of fact, I thought switchblade knives were always — and I hope there are no Italians here — identified with Italians."

A few minutes later, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, was discussing the need for "a broad spectrum of thinking" within the party.

In New York, he said, "we have in the leader of the Senate a man who is a conservative, Walter Mahoney. We have as the speaker of the Assembly, a man who is a progressive, Joe Carlino. He doesn't carry a switchblade, either, General, though sometimes he would like to do so. Be careful, we have a lot of Italians here."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Freezing Technique Is Tested For Reduction Of Prostate

A new freeze technique for removing the prostate gland was reported recently by Dr. Ward A. Soanes of Buffalo. The cryoprobe is passed through the urethra until the end is in contact with the gland. The thin tip is cooled until the temperature drops to between minus 160 and minus 180 degrees C. The duration of the freeze depends upon the size of the gland and lasts approximately 15 minutes.

The probe is warmed and withdrawn. The prostate gradually deteriorates into a sludgy mass that breaks into small pieces. These are removed by irrigating the bladder and with the passage of urine.

The procedure has been done on more than 200 men with enlargement or cancer of the gland. Time will tell whether the final results are comparable to the methods now available.

THE URETHRA is the tube that leads from the bladder to the outside. It is surrounded by the prostate gland near the opening of the bladder. The lining of the urethra in this part is composed of prostatic tissue which serves as part of the lining of the tube in much the same way as the outer surface of the tonsils cover the back of the throat.

The position of the gland allows prostatic secretions to ooze into the urethra where they provide much of the seminal fluid.

WHEN THE prostate enlarges, a part of the gland protrudes into the urethra leading to a narrowing or blockage of the passageway. This is common after age 50 but only one man in six develops enough trouble to warrant surgery. Inflammation and tumors of the gland may also lead to swelling.

Prostate trouble is suspected when the force and caliber of the urinary stream decrease. Other symptoms are a hesitancy in starting to void and frequency of urination. The latter is bothersome, especially at night, because it interferes with sleep.

VAN DELLEN

Early diagnosis and treatment are advisable because blockage has an adverse effect upon the kidneys.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to The I-J.)

WORMS REMAIN

Mrs. R. W. writes: In pork-worm disease, after the worm imbeds itself in the muscles, how do you go about getting it out?

REPLY

You don't, as the worms remain forever in the muscles. When this stage of the disease is reached the victim is practically cured; the worms go into an inactive stage because they are surrounded by scar tissue which shuts them off from the rest of the body.

PAIN IN SIDE

Mrs. J. J. writes: Why, upon running fast, do children get a pain in the left side which stops when they sit down?

REPLY

No physician has ever been able to give a satisfactory answer to this question. Pain occurs more often on the left than the right side and for this reason the spleen often is blamed.

SALT, HEART DISORDER

Mrs. H. A. J. writes: How much salt can a person with heart trouble have in his food?

REPLY

This is an individual problem that the physician must solve. Salt seldom comes up for consideration unless heart trouble is associated with dropsy, high blood pressure, or kidney damage.

LEAN BREAKFAST

K. S. writes: Will drinking lemon juice every morning help reduce weight?

REPLY

Yes, provided lemon juice is substituted for wheat cakes and bacon or sausage.

Ranch Owners

Protest Rises

In Property Tax

The increase in assessed valuation of ranch lands in Marin County was protested yesterday at a meeting of Marin Property Owners Assn., according to Melvin J. Rupp, secretary-manager.

He said directors heard objections from ranchers who stated that instead of getting property tax relief, it was apparent county property taxation was "continuing its upward spiral."

Ranchers stated that if the upward movement continued, it would end ranching in Marin, and turn the county into a large suburban area, Rupp reported.

The directors sent a letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan commending him on his efforts to reduce state expenditure, Rupp said, and opposed any large-scale earthquake study in West Marin which would prohibit reasonable development there.

Success Speaks The Loudest For Shows

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The commercial success of NBC-TV's "I Spy," the first series to costar a Negro, is a factor in bringing about a number of recent developments in network television.

For example, the video trade here was learned of a pilot film being made for a possible half-hour situation comedy series called "Benji," which would star two small boys, one white, the other Negro.

PILOT FILM

And in New York, for another example, David Susskind is making a pilot film for a possible one-hour ABC-TV police series, "N.Y.P.D.," which also would have white and Negro stars. The initials stand for New York Police Department.

But what is most interesting and ironic about all these developments is that social change in television entertainment actually takes place not primarily because of flag-waving or people with causes—but because of simple success in the marketplace. In the end, video's wholly commercial approach has a leveling effect on everything—a sort of social common denominator.

FIRST TRY

Some time before "I Spy" came along, for instance, Sad Sam Jones pitched six games in four World Series without winning one.

Susskind tried to sell the networks on a cops and robbers series starring Sidney Poitier and Robert Ryan, but had no luck in peddling it.

Then a bit later he did succeed in getting "East Side West Side" on CBS-TV, and a Negro was a regular cast member, but the series failed to score.

"I Spy," however, did score, and was widely regarded as a significant development. Yet the most salutary fact about this series is that it did not succeed because Bill Cosby, a costar, is a Negro—but because it is a well done show.

Of all facts, this should be the most pleasing to persons who oppose racial casting for whatever reason, including Negro performers who do not want to get stock type roles.

The point that the marketplace determines social change in television entertainment is well illustrated by another fact—that despite the hit status of "I Spy," another series starring a Negro, NBC-TV's Sammy Davis show, failed badly, even though Cosby had broken the ground a while before.

Sad Sam Jones pitched six games in four World Series without winning one.

Civic Ballet Has Apprentice Group

Children aged 11 years and over who have three years ballet training are eligible for auditions for the newly formed apprentice group of the Marin Civic Ballet to be held Jan. 29 at 11 a.m. at the Leona Norman School of Ballet, 1339 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

The group will give performances of its own and assist the civic ballet in productions requiring younger dancers.

Auditions will be conducted by Carolyn Parks, director of the junior department at the Academy of Ballet in San Francisco.

Boat-conscious Marin County has more than a few hardy sportsmen who prefer to build their own craft. And more than a few of them have chosen a Marin project, the popular Pelican class sailboat designed by Capt. William H. Short of Larkspur. L-J writer Richard Lytle reports in tomorrow's Marin Magazine upon his growth of the Pelican fleet, and why the boat has enjoyed such a warm reception.
In 1964, pretty Sharon Carnes was Miss Minnesota and a Miss American contestant. Today she is married and living in Marin. She is also a television star, the featured singer on KPIX's daytime "The John Bartholomew Tucker Show." The Independent-Journal's weekend supplement tomorrow includes a special feature on the pert performer, including her opinions on today's popular music.

CITIZEN PUTS A TOPPER ON CITY HALL

A 6-foot 7-inch chandelier perched today atop the Novato City Hall steeple—a gift to the city by Alfred Bowman of 827 Reichert Avenue. Bowman made the weathervane himself—even putting on finishing

Student Lauds Acting President Of College

Irwin P. Diamond, acting president of the College of Marin, received a standing ovation from students yesterday as outgoing student body president Donna Ryan nominated him for the job of permanent president of the college.

"It is only right that Mr. Diamond should be appointed to this position because of the great quantity and quality of his service to the college," Miss Ryan said at the annual college awards assembly.

"He is the man most familiar with the needs of the college and the man most committed to fighting for them."

"For a long time, there was a lack of faculty representation and communication on this campus. This does not exist this semester."

"Under Mr. Diamond's leadership, the faculty and administration have been encouraged to be creative and to change things."

"Most important of all, however, to the associated students, is the knowledge that we have an administrator whom we can not only respect, but who in turn has the greatest respect for the students. We have an administrator who has the courage to defend our actions and freedoms to the community whenever necessary."

On behalf of the associated students, Miss Ryan presented Diamond with a plaque inscribed to "our favorite college president."

John Gillin, associated students faculty adviser, was also given an award of appreciation.

Associated students' keys for outstanding student officers went to treasurer Fred Lockett and vice president (spring semester president) Mike Kawai.

Outstanding student awards went to Mary Lynn Cochran, Harry Hersh, Liz Johnson, John Kemmerle, Pam McKinney, Eileen O'Connell, Louie Pharms, Penny Sievers, Gail Sivori and Jim Wallace.

Outstanding faculty awards went to Paul Miller, Tower Times adviser, and Charles Herndon, student services adviser.

Tower Times editor Jared Dreyfus was given a $100 award. Dick Giovannoli and John Larsen received distinguished service awards.

Awards were also presented to all members of the football team, cross-country track team, and water polo team, to all college center commissioners, to all student organizations, and to all outgoing student officers. Spring semester officers were given the oath of office.

A minimum of five feet of water is considered a safe depth for adult water skiers.

Chips Down: Unbeaten Tam, Drake Cagers Clash

By GARY TISCHLER

This is the big one . . . already.

When tomorrow morning rolls around, either Tamalpais or Drake basketball players will wake up as members of the only remaining undefeated basketball team in the Marin County Athletic League.

The two teams will put their perfect 3-0 league marks squarely on the line tonight at Tamalpais in a battle for an early foothold on the league crown.

In other games, Redwood and Marin Catholic clash at Kentfield, in a contest that neither can afford to lose if they cherish any title hopes. San Rafael, which has battled the best valiantly, could turn up a cropper against rival Terra Linda on the Trojan court. Novato quits battling league windmills to meet Cardinal Newman at Santa Rosa. All games are at approximately 8:15 p.m. Class B games start at 7 p.m.

There is not very much to pick between Tamalpais and Drake, unless it would be the fact that the Pirates are defending champions, something that could make them stronger and more vulnerable.

Tam is the team that experts picked to sweep to the title before there was a shot fired in anger. Nine practice games and eight losses later, the Indians, under new coach Bernie Schneider, were acting like anything but contenders.

But with the start of league play, something odd happened. The Indians shook off the nightmarish practice season. Injuries slowly began to heal. And the season looked like a success as they rolled over three conference foes and knocked off powerful Petaluma. It just may be time to produce the desired result — a title.

SPEED

The Indians have speed, limited height but good jumping ability, and a brilliant floor leader in all-league guard Steve Woodward, who is averaging 13.3 in league play. He matches up with Steve Johnson as a potent scoring combo. But Pat Schafer, a slender, scrambling 6-3 center, has made a big difference for Tam. He has blossomed into a scorer (14.4) and a big rebounder. And Schneider can look for additional help from Floyd Jackson (18 points in a 55-38 route of Marin Catholic) and Mike Biber, who seems to have come around after a crippling back injury, and Leroy Barrow, an outstanding defensive player and sometime scorer.

The Indians will be up against a squad that has lost only four times in 13 games and which has had very little trouble in disposing of three loop foes.

Drake has the biggest ace in the hole in Jerry Sprout, who may be just the man to muffle Pat Schafer underneath the basket. There will be very little garbage or anything else scored off the 6-6, 235-pound Drake center.

Sprout is imposing on the boards, but unlike most high school behemoth centers who are sometimes unkindly referred to as butchers, Sprout can shoot. He has a nice, soft jumper from close to 15 feet out that he has connected on frequently. He leads the MCAL in scoring for league play with a

Crosby's Spyglass Monster Takes A Beating

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN
I-J Sports Editor

Marinite Played With 'Goose'; Super Fan Missed Super Bowl

THE CLOWN—The passing Wednesday of Goose Tatum, the Clown Prince of Basketball, was felt locally. Insurance exec Allan B. Murray of San Rafael travelled extensively with The Goose and the Harlem Globetrotters in 1959 as a member of the College All-Stars and got to know the big guy intimately.

Big Al says the obits listing Tatum's age as 45 were slightly erroneous, to wit: "I think he must have been at least 60, but he had the body of a 21-year-old."

SUPER BOWL—Billy Nave of the Marin bowling clan, a super football fan if there ever was one, missed Sunday's Super Bowl, believe it or not. In Sacramento on political business, Billy couldn't get near a TV set.

On the other hand, the Brothers Schwartz (Milt and Rich) of San Rafael's Casa Marin Furniture clan arranged a buying trip to L.A. that just happened to coincide with the pro grid playoff and were in the Coliseum for all the fun. In $20 seats. (So THAT'S the kind of furniture they were looking for!)

QUICK QUOTE—College of Marin Coach Cal Riemcke described guard Bill Pandiani's 37-point performance in the Santa Monica Tournament as "... the best individual performance I've ever seen." The 5-foot-7 Pandiani, by the way, is nicknamed "Peanut" or "Deacon" by his Tarmates.

A FIRST—Byron Leydecker, president of the Redwood National Bank, saw his first professional basketball game Jan. 6 (Warriors-Hawks) and liked what he saw.

On the other hand, ex-I-J scribe Harry Del Grande of Greenbrae is a front pew occupant at EVERY Warrior game.

TRADE WINDS—Don't go away: That Giant-Cub deal I talked to you about not long ago is still on the conference table. Jesus Alou's poor Winter League performance is holding it up, but the Giants are still flirting with Cubbie Billy Williams in a four-player deal that also would include Walt Popovich of the Cubs and Jim Hart of San Francisco.

WARM OVEN—Some of the guests at the second annual Marin County Hot Stove League session will be ex-Yankees Joe DeMaestri of Novato, Artie Schallock of San Rafael and Charlie Wensloff of Mill Valley, ex-Seals star Bob Jensen and former baseball-football great Sam Chapman of Greenbrae.

Sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, it will be held Friday, Jan. 27, 7:30 p.m. at the Mill Valley Youth Center.

EXPENDABLES—It says here the player pool to stock the new San Diego and Seattle franchises in the National Basketball Assn. this summer will include the names of Warriors Tom Meschery, Joe Ellis, Bud Olsen, Bob Warlick and Al Attles, meaning bossman Franklin Mieuli will place the untouchable freeze on Rick Barry, Nate Thurmond, Fred Hetzel, Jim King, Paul Neumann, Clyde Lee and Jeff Mullins.

THE MOST—If you think Chet Walker of the 76ers is the most underrated and Darrall Imhoff of the Lakers the most overrated player in the NBA then you and I see eye-to-eye, Bunkie.

THE PRIZE—And the cage pros tell me the most sought college player in this year's crop will be Jim Walker of Providence, R.I. Beyond him, it's slim pickings this season.

THE VOICE—Russ "Bye-Bye, Baby!" Hodges will lend some athletic excitement to the "Seven Year Itch" presentation of the Cove Players opening tonight at Tiburon Tommie's. A tape of Russ broadcasting a Giants game will be part of the show. Curtain time, 9 o'clock. Play ball!

Joe Carr Leader With 68

By JACK STEVENSON

PEBBLE BEACH (AP)—Spyglass Hill's budding reputation as a super monster among golf courses took a beating just as soon as the big name pros began attacking the Bing Crosby's $104,500 tournament.

Four of the leading seven going into today's second round had fired over Spyglass, the course built along the beach and through the forest in the area where the Treasure Island novel was written.

Joe Carr, a 28-year-old from Worcester, Mass., who won only $50 in official money last year grabbed the lead with a 68 at Cypress Point and big Jack Nicklaus carded a 69 at Pebble Beach. Al Geiberger, the PGA tournament champ, had a 70 there.

Also at 70, two under par, were four who shot at Spyglass — New Zealand's southpaw Bob Charles, Jack Burke Jr., Jerry Pittman, and little known Jim Colbert of Kansas City, Kan.

"It's one of the really good courses already," commented Charles, but others weren't so generous in descriptions of the new 6,972-yard layout where holes have such nicknames as Billy Bones and Long John Silver.

Defending champion Don Massengale walked the plank at Spyglass with an 80 while Miller Barber scribbled himself out of what might have been a treasure. After shooting a 72, he incorrectly inscribed his nine-hole total of 34 in the box where he should have put his 4 for the 18th.

102 FOR 18!

He had to accept a 34 for the single hole, 64 for the nine and 102 for the 18. So he'll do his treasure hunting next week in the Los Angeles Open. Even though Carr leads him by the stroke, Nicklaus feels he stands in great shape with the 69 at Pebble and Geiberger wishes he could have turned back the clock.

A year ago in the Sunday finals at Pebble, Geiberger shot a 76 at Pebble and finished two strokes behind Massengale for top money.

The weather plays such a big part in any Crosby tournament that all golfers hope to play Pebble in warm, sunny and windless weather such as prevailed for the opening 18 holes. "I think it might blow Friday and Saturday," commented Nicklaus in semi-jest.

In bad weather, Pebble will be the toughest, Cypress next and the advantage will be at Spyglass Hill, which is partially hidden by trees.

40-FOOT BIRDIE

Carr dropped a 40-foot birdie putt at the first hole and then went another stroke under par with an eight-footer at the second. At the fifth, he dropped from five feet, after hitting the green on the 471-yard hole in 2.

He protected the subpar round with eight and 15-foot putts at the 10th and 12th although going over regulation figures on both the ninth and 18th.

Under Crosby's plan, each pro-amateur team plays each of the three courses and then the low 40 teams and pros in contention shoot in Sunday's final. A $16,000 prize awaits the low scoring pro and the one on the winning team gets $2,700.

Leading the pro-am sector, where the handicaps of the amateurs count in the scoring, were three teams — Dick Crawford and Wheeler Farish, Jack Rule and Ed Lowery and Dale Douglass and Joe Dyer, tied at 62.

BOAT SHOW SETS SAIL AT OAKLAND COLISEUM

The Oakland Coliseum presents its first exhibit show today when the doubleheader Boat Show opens a 10-day run.

More than 400 exhibits of the latest in sail and power craft are on display in the big arena and adjoining exhibit hall.

Doors will be open weekdays from 4 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. The show was at the San Francisco Auditorium last year.

AFL All-Stars Clash In Oakland Tomorrow

OAKLAND (AP)—Possibly the last American Football League All-Star games goes on national television tomorrow from the Oakland Coliseum with a high-scoring outcome the prospect between the East and West squads.

Players from both the AFL and the National Football League—which plays its All-Star Game Sunday in Los Angeles—have proposed a super all star clash between players from the merged leagues. Present television commitments probably would be the biggest obstacle to such a game next season.

The AFL contest was supposed to have been played last week to showcase the new Oakland Coliseum. But the merger produced the Super Bowl and some of the All-Star allure was rubbed off in the 35-10 defeat of Kansas City by Green Bay last Sunday.

Skating Duel In Nationals

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—The long-awaited duel between defending national champion Scott Allen and his chief adversary, Gary Visconti, was scheduled here tonight in the national figure skating championships.

Allen, who has already won the figure skating portion of the four-day championships, found himself in the same position as a year ago. Visconti won the free style event in 1966, but Allen still won the national crown with his overall point total.

Sixty per cent of a skater's total score is determined by how he does at the figures competition. The remaining 40 per cent goes to the skater's free style skating ability.

The 17-year-old Allen, from Smoke Rise, N.J., also won the national title in 1964, but was edged out by Visconti, a Detroit youth, for the honor the following year.

That could be shown at 1:30 p.m. kickoff in the $3,000 seat Coliseum. The AFL is hoping for 30,000 fans but wouldn't be shocked if up to 6,000 fewer appeared despite a 100-mile television blackout.

Television ratings should prove interesting for this absolutely guaranteed last weekend of the football season. Has the saturation point been reached by at-home viewers?

Whoever chooses to watch can expect to see a high-scoring show as the East tries to win its first All-Star game. They lost the first four before players from seven teams thrashed Buffalo 30-19 last year in an altered format at Houston.

West coach John Rauch of Oakland, in his first All-Star assignment, and East coach Mike Holovak of Boston, in his second, each figure four touchdowns are needed to win. And they figure everyone will be trying because the winners get $1,000 each and the losers $600.

The West will feature passing. Quarterback Len Dawson from the AFL champion Kansas City

WARRIORS WIN, COME HOME Rick Decked Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—At the rate he's going, Rick Barry will finish the season as the leading scorer in the National Basketball Assn. while hearing bells and bird calls.

Barry scored an under-average 22 points last night in Baltimore as the San Francisco Warriors beat the New York Knicks 123-102.

But Dick Van Arsdale, who usually guards Barry, floored the San Francisco star with a punch in the first quarter during a swinging fist fight after a scramble for a loose ball.

That marked the second recorded fight the sophomore from Miami has been a party to this season. Tom Hawkins of the Los Angeles Lakers got thrown out of a game Jan. 11 for hitting Barry. And Barry took a sneak punch on the jaw from an unidentified player when the Warriors met the Knicks on Jan. 12.

Also, Howard Komives of New York decked Barry last year with a punch.

The Warriors flew cross-country from Baltimore to meet the second-place St. Louis Hawks tonight in San Francisco's Civic Auditorium, 8:30. The Hawks are 8½ games back of the Warriors, only team above .500 in the Western Division.

After the fight—for which no one was ejected—the Warriors settled down behind Tom Meschery and ran away during the fourth period.

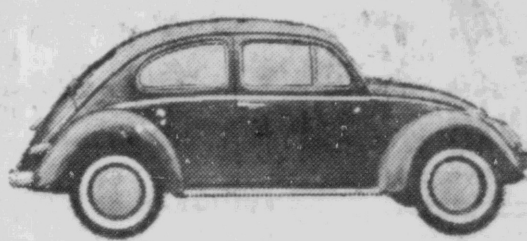

Meschery collected 28 points and led all scorers. Fred Hetzel had one of his better nights with 20 points on seven field goals and six free throws in as many attempts. Dick Barnett paced New York with 21 points.

Clay Faces New Draft Hearings

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay's attorney said today he has two moves he can make now that the heavyweight boxing champion's local draft board has reopened his case for exemption as a Black Muslim minister.

Attorney Hayden Covington said he can request a physical appearance by Clay before the local board for an oral hearing, or he can appeal the case to the Kentucky State Selective Service Board of Appeals, or he can do both.

"I don't know what I'll do just yet," said the attorney. "I'll have to confer with the champ. I hope to get in touch with him today, or the next day — certainly by Monday."

Clay, who celebrated his 25th birthday last Tuesday, is training in Houston, Tex., for his scheduled 15-round title bout against Ernie Terrell Feb. 6 in the Astrodome.

Covington said he had received no official notification as of last night from Local Board 47 of Louisville concerning the action. He termed the reopening of the case "a technical move."

"I heard the news on the radio," he said. "They have reopened the case and given him a 1A classification, but a new 1A classification. It means a fresh start as though the case had not been looked at."

Persons with 1A classification can be drafted immediately. Covington is trying to get Clay classified 4D, which is a draft exemption for ministers.

Local Board No. 47 had voted on Jan. 12 not to reopen Clay's appeal on the ministerial plea, but Covington appealed to Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the Selective Service, and Col. Everett S. Stephenson, Kentucky State Selective Service director in Frankfort, to direct the local board to reopen the case.

Covington had threatened to go into court and demand that the case be reopened.

The reopening of the case paved the way for Covington to appeal, if he so chooses.

"If they hadn't reopened, I couldn't appeal," he said.

Pacific-8 Tilt On Television

By Associated Press

Semester examinations have pared the weekend college basketball schedule, with only one Pacific-8 Conference game to be played.

Washington State, 2-2 in the conference and 7-8 overall, hosts Washington, 1-3 and 5-7, tomorrow afternoon in a regional televised contest.

Unbeaten and No. 1-ranked UCLA is the only other Pacific-8 team in action, playing at home tonight against Portland and tomorrow night against U.C. Santa Barbara. The Bruins are 12-0 this season.

Two West Coast Athletic Conference teams play tonight — Santa Clara at San Francisco State and Pepperdine at home against Southern California College.

St. Vincent's Quint Hosts Hanna Center

St. Vincent's School for Boys of San Rafael host Hanna Boys Center tonight at 7:30 in a rival basketball game. The Eagles of St. Vincent's lost their last game to the Novato High School freshman team, 46-38, despite 21 points by Ron Myers.

Covington said the local board "can't do anything if I take an appeal."

He said that he had a petition signed by 3,810 persons and 42 affidavits supporting Clay's claim that he is a "regular teacher and preacher of the Black Muslim faith."

He said that Clay, who embraced the Black Muslim faith three years ago under the name Muhammad Ali, devotes about 90 per cent of his time to lecturing and seeking converts to the faith.

Covington said the local board can't refuse an oral hearing if he requests one, but he said he would be reluctant to pull Clay out of Houston.

Clay originally was classified 1Y — persons who can be drafted if military manpower needs become acute — after he twice flunked Army aptitude tests three years ago. But last Feb. 17, he was reclassified 1A under new, lower qualifications established to make more men eligible for the draft.

On Jan. 9, the Kentucky Board of Appeals rejected Clay's request that he be reclassified as a conscientious objector. This decision by the five-man board was unanimous, blocking any appeal to Washington on the conscientious objector grounds and leaving Clay 1A.

17-point average, including 23 points against San Rafael.

Additional scoring punch comes from Chet Carlisle, an all-leaguer second team last year with a 13.0 average. Don Alvarado is one of the keys to Drake's man-to-man defense that has limited opponents to a 41.3 average. No team this season has scored more than 55 points against Drake. And Coach Carl Brown's Pirates take justified pride in that defense.

The other Drake starters will be Karl Stein, a swift guard, and Stu Clemons.

SHADES OF '66

Last year, the two teams battled it out for the league title with Drake winning it on the strength of a 44-1 victory showdown win at Tamalpais in the next-to-last game.

Redwood (2-2) has lost two straight league battles and must whip the Wildcats (1-2) to keep its hopes alive. The stumbling Cats, after a fine practice season, have dropped two straight league games.

San Rafael will have to have everybody shipshape to down the surprisingly strong Trojans, 1-2 in league play. The Bulldogs, 2-2, have lost only to the league leaders while tripping Redwood and Marin Catholic. The Trojans offense will be led by Fred Smith, No. 2 scorer in the MCAL.

Specially developed from the Mini-Cooper, for use in trials, rallies, and competition events for the enthusiast who requires something extra

The engine is entirely new, having been developed from racing experience.

Being 1-3 litres in capacity, this latest addition to the Mini range has phenomenal acceleration, and a 100 m.p.h. top speed to match. Now, "Hydrolastic" suspension and 145-10 SP41 tubeless tyres provide the necessary extra grip-tight road-holding for high-speed performance—a feature with which the Mini-Cooper is already well-endowed.

First established as the smallest car to be fitted with front disc brakes, the system of the 'S'-type Mini-Cooper has further super-safety features developed in parallel to its performance. Larger front disc brakes are fitted and the four-wheel hydraulic system includes a 5½ in. (0-14 m.) diaphragm servo providing assistance on the foot brake. A pressure-limiting valve in the line between the master cylinder and the rear brakes reduces the possibility of the rear wheels locking under high pedal pressure.

500 Auto Record Topples

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — A new course record was the target today for stock car drivers seeking to qualify for the $85,000 Riverside 500 mile Grand National stock car race Sunday.

Dick Hutcherson of Keokuk, Iowa, posted the new mark yesterday when he was the fastest of 10 qualifiers over the 2.7-mile course with a speed of 106.660 miles an hour, turning the course in 1:31.19 in a 1967 Ford.

But right behind him and capturing a spot in the front row came David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., whose record Hutcherson broke. Pearson drove a 1967 Dodge at a speed of 106.508 miles an hour. He had set the old record last year of 106.078 miles an hour.

Defending champion Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, four-time winner of the Riverside 500, was the third fastest qualifier as he pushed his 1967 Mercury 106.473 miles an hour. Richard Petty, Randleman, N.C., in a 1967 Ford also made the second row at 106.380 miles per hour.

Two other drivers bettered the old record. They were Fred Lorenzen, Elmhurst, Ill., in a 1967 Ford at 106.229 mph and Parnelli Jones, Palos Verdes Estates, in a 1967 Ford at 106.171 mph.

The other four qualifiers yesterday were: A. J. Foyt, Houston, 1967 Ford, 105.916 mph; Loyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., 1967 Ford, 105.698 mph; Billy Foster, Vancouver, B. C., 1967 Dodge, 105.297 mph and Jerry Grant, Escondido, 1967 Plymouth, 105.274 mph.

After five qualify today, there will be 29 qualifying spots to be filled tomorrow for the race, ranked as the richest stock car road race in the country.

MARIN YACHT HEADED FOR COW PALACE

Lowrie's Yacht Harbor of San Rafael will enter this new Owens 33-foot yacht sedan in the big San Francisco National Sports & Boat Show at the Cow Palace Feb. 3-12. Named the "Margarita,"

Marin Tars Take On Napa Quintet

The College of Marin Tars might be playing their twin brothers when they battle Napa J. C. at Santa Rosa at 8 o'clock tonight in a Golden Valley Conference Western Division clash.

Both teams like to weave and shoot. Both have high-scoring guards and very little height. The only difference is that Napa has not been winning much of anything while languishing close to the cellar in the Western Division, while the Tars lead the league and have a winning season mark of 10-9. Napa's only win came over Santa Rosa.

The man to watch for Napa will be George Lambrecht, who was third in scoring in the Golden Valley loop last year with a 17.4 average and earned honorable mention all-league honors.

Napa, however, is devoid of height, with its tallest starting player measuring 6-2. That's center Gordon Reese, but he's got a backup man that's 6-7, who may be called to help out on the boards.

Although Terry Overlid at 6-4 is the tallest player among Marin's small starters, the Tars have been sweeping the boards of late, outbounding the opposition in their last four starts, all victories.

Tar coach Cal Riemke will throw his usual lineup of three fast, long-shooting guards and two slender forwards at Napa. That will be Bill Pandiani, Bob Phillips and Russ Smith at guard and Overlid and Tom Stetson at forward. Pandiani appears recovered from a pulled back muscle suffered against College of the Redwoods last week.

Four of the starters are averaging in double figures with Pandiani leading the way at 16.6, followed by Smith at 12.0, Overlid at 11.4 and Phillips at 10.9.

Riemke can expect some help from a rapidly improving bench headed by Russ Williams, Ken Blasingame and Kraig Kilby.

Williams went wild for the jayvee team with a 37-point performance against Mare Island this week. He is the Tars' sixth man. Blasingame and Kilby offer help on the boards and Brian Grove has proven to be a steady backup guard.

Riemke expects some strong opposition from Napa, which has beaten the Tars only once during Riemke's reign.

"They don't have a very good record," he said. But one thing about them, "they'll hustle and they have good spirit despite their record."

The Napa conference mark is 1-3, while the Tars are 4-1.

GREENBRAE LANES HIGHLIGHTED

Bowler's Near Miss—279

A four-pin in the fifth frame is all that stood in the way of a perfect 300 game by Bob Martin, assistant manager at Greenbrae Lanes.

Martin, a 183 average bowler from Novato, threw 11 strikes, hitting in all but the fifth frame. He left the four-pin on his first ball in that frame and picked it up for a spare, then continued rolling strikes. It gave him a 279 game and helped him to an 856 four-game series in the 525 Masters Trio League.

It was a week for Martins, as Jack Martin—no relation to Bob—of Corte Madera, rolled a 254 game on his way to a 619 series in the 865 Scratch League. Jack, a milkman for Foremost Dairies, is carrying a 186 average.

Two all-star bowlers from Marin led the gals, Marilyn

BOUNTY MAY END ON COUGARS

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The legislature will be asked this year to abolish the last state bounty on a predatory animal in California.

The State Fish and Game Department hopes to make permanent the temporary ban on payments for mountain lions enacted in 1963 in response to conservationists' pleas.

Several sportsmen's groups and the natural resources committee of the California Farm Bureau Federation are backing outright repeal of the bounty—$50 each for males and $60 for females.

The four-year moratorium on bounties was sponsored by former Sen. Fred Farr of Monterey, who said he feared the big cats might become extinct with hunters offered the added incentive of bounties. The moratorium expires this year.

The state's wildlife managers don't agree that the cougar was threatened with extinction in California, but supported the lawmaker's conclusion that bounties in general were bad business.

"Subsidized fraud," is the way Wallace Magregor, wildlife manager for the Department of Fish and Game, views the payments.

He notes the history of bounties is filled with cases of robbed traps, doctored hides and animals killed in one area and brought to another where bounties are paid.

Magregor notes that every western state except Arizona and California has abolished bounties on the mountain lion. Oregon abolished all bounties in 1963. Colorado and Idaho have designated lions trophy animals, and Idaho's fish and game department is making a life-study of the big cats.

Fish and game officials would like to see the cougar reserved for trophy hunters in California, and a tag system instituted to keep track of the kill.

Magregor says there hasn't been any increase in reported kills of livestock by cougars, which generally feed on deer, during the four years of the moratorium on bounties. The department's plan would allow livestock growers who suffered losses to kill the offending lion, but would require a report of any kills.

No one has a precise idea of the mountain lion population in California, but fish and game officials estimate it at about 600. The number of lions killed averaged about 100 a year while the bounty law was in effect.

The only state bounties paid in California are 10 cents for magpies and 15 cents for crows, though several counties retain bounties on coyotes, bobcats and skunks. One county pays for mountain lions.

Magregor said a survey showed hunters in California pay $200 to $300 to guides to hunt mountain lions.

"It seems pretty stupid to pay $5,000 to $7,000 a year out of the fish and game fund for killing an animal that sportsmen will pay $300 to hunt," he says.

Sterile Husband Faces Child Support Charges

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Folmer J. Sorensen, 47, whose wife gave birth to a child by artificial insemination because he was sterile, faces Superior Court trial here Feb. 24 on charges that he has failed to support the youngster.

The mechanic from Stockton pleaded innocent Wednesday in the action filed Wednesday by Lois Sorensen, 46, who obtained a divorce two years ago and now lives with the 6-year-old boy in Sebastopol.

According to the action, the Sorensens were married in 1944 and signed an agreement in 1959 in a San Francisco physician's office giving consent to birth of a child by artificial insemination. It stipulated that Sorensen was sterile.

Sorensen supported the youngster until the divorce, but then refused support on grounds he was not responsible because he is neither the natural or the adopted father of the boy.

Sonoma County Dist. Atty. Kiernan Hyland said the test case may make California legal history. He added it was his belief that Sorensen is "morally obligated to support the child as though he were the natural father."

Western Needs More Volunteers For Bit Parts

More men to act as cowboys and in other minor roles are needed by the Terra Linda Players for their production of "Destiny Rides Again," which opens Feb. 27 in Ignacio Church.

The western musical is in rehearsal. Part of the production will be staged in-the-round, according to director James H. Jenkins.

Those taking part will include Lou Mason in the title role, Sara Davis, Tom Hartly, Mona Hodwitz, and Mary Diedrich. Choral director will be Richard Sparapany, with Leonard Jared as musical director. Choreography is by Theresa Wyatt.

Curtain will be at 8:30 p.m. each night. Auditions for the parts remaining open will be held in the Church in Ignacio, Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

United Home Group Elects Officer Slate

Richard E. Florian of the Terra Linda Valley Property Owners Assn. was elected president of the newly incorporated United Homeowners Assn. of Greater San Rafael at the first meeting of directors last night.

Jack G. Nixon of the Marinwood Assn. was elected vice president, and Franklin A. Battat of the Loch Lomond Homeowners Assn. was elected secretary-treasurer.

OTHER DIRECTORS

Other directors are Ronald H. Marinoff, Lucas Valley Homeowners Assn., Harold J. Himmelsbach, Peacock Gap Homeowners Assn.; Paul K. McMullen, Glenwood Homeowners Assn.; James M. Fletcher, Bret Harte Homeowners Assn., and Norman K. McAbee, Twelve Oaks Homeowners Assn.

Directors agreed that a statement should be prepared stating the aims of the organization, which were generally described as working for the welfare and betterment of homeowners in and around San Rafael, and coordinating the efforts of homeowner groups. Florian and Nixon were authorized to prepare the statement.

AGENDA TOPICS

Directors also authorized a review of the residency requirement for elective city office, with a view toward eliminating any inequities to residents of newly incorporated areas. The city charter requires that a person be a resident of the city for three years before he is eligible for elective office.

Florian and Battat were authorized to make the study, and, if necessary, recommend a charter revision to the city council.

Directors adjourned until April 20.

Judge Smith also gave Prydz, of 20 Woodland Avenue, San Anselmo, a suspended 60-day county jail term. He noted, however, that Prydz was completely cooperative with state tax investigators, and has made restitution.

Prydz pleaded no-contest Dec. 8 to four misdemeanor counts. He failed to pay $69.10, plus delinquency and fraud penalties for 1962; a total of $124.94 in tax and penalties for 1963; $214.05 for 1964, and $124.79 for 1965.
